Halemaumau Is Angry
The First Round-Tripper
Cheer for Publishers
2 Foreigners; 2 Failures

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

THE great mouth of Halemaumau, or "House of Everlasting Fire," on the side of Mount Kilauea, biggest volcano, is a fire. Its huge crater, eight miles around, is filled with boiling lava, a fountain of light, the volcano roaring continuously, fire leaping to the clouds. No wonder the natives gather, bump their heads on the ground and offer food to the goddess Pele, supposed to be angry because Dr. Jagger, great earthquake authority, has left for a visit to Asia.

Yet, simple to the simple natives, yet not so long ago the wisest Christians rang church bells and prayed violently to drive away an invading comet.

CHARLES LEVINE, who financed Chamberlin's flight to Europe, and flew with him, plans to fly back. He says he "want to do something first," and become the first "round-tripper" in transatlantic flying.

MR. LEVINE who is a Jew, knows that some of his predecessors of Semitic blood, the ancient Phoenicians, did "something first" in many directions. They first dared to take a sailboat out of sight of land. There was no compass then and they were first to go from the calm Mediterranean through the straits of Gibraltar into the wild Atlantic and on to the tin mines of England.

DOING things "first" is not new with the people of Semitic blood. There was a good deal of it in Christopher Columbus, who made one important "first" trip.

THE giant Fokker flying machine owned by W. R. Hearst will have an interesting baptism. Bertaud will take the Hearst machine from New York to Rome, non-stop, and Mr. Hearst has invited Capt. Hartley, of the steamship Leviathan, to act as navigator on the trip.

Bertaud will start as soon as the big machine is ready. It will have a wing spread of 64 feet, a wing surface of 630 square feet, weigh, loaded, 12,400 pounds, and, at Bertaud's request, will be fitted with one 425-horsepower engine instead of three 220-horsepower engines originally ordered. Bertaud prefers one big engine to three smaller for a long flight.

GENERAL PATRICK, head of the army air corps, says flying is getting safer all the time, and in 10 years will be the safest kind of travel.

GERMANY'S great flying company, the Lufthansa, carried 163,000 passengers through the air in 1926, with an average of 7,000 pounds of air mail per month—not including great quantities of newspapers sent by special airplanes. The Lufthansa will operate in 18 countries this year.

CHAIN store sales reach a new record. Twelve leading companies did $311,582,087 business in the first six months of this year. Childs restaurants sold nearly $3,000,000 worth of good food last month.

BUSINESS men and newspaper publishers will notice that chain stores enable advertisers to get fullest value for their money.

When 10 years department stores in big cities will have branches, sent out to the "mother store." When John Wanamaker put carpet on the floor of his store he said to those who were accustomed to it always pays to make the customer comfortable."

Stores in each big section of a city, with the "mother store" in the center, will be the next step, and deserving purchases will be cheered by advertising increasing.

MISS CONSTANCE TALMADGE, excellent moving picture actress, requesting a divorce, says of her husband: He is the nicest man, but I am out of love."

The "out of love" is modern, typical of the age. Strict logic might confirm the view that if you marry when "in love" you should unmarry when "out of love." There are other considerations, however, that still influence many.

Twice Miss Talmadge has married a man foreign born. Perhaps the third attempt will include an American and permanent bliss.

MR. COOLIDGE has decided that the country and not our good friends in Great Britain, shall decide the character of Uncle Sam's battle fleet. That sounds reasonable, in spite of the fact that steel fighting ships floating on the water are only interesting targets for submarines and airplanes. Useful or out of date, the number and size of our ships should be decided in THIS Country.

SOMEBODY made a fortune inventing the cow-catcher, which protects the locomotive, not the cow. Another genius may invent a "cow protector" for airplanes. The first cow has been injured by the first cow-hurling airplane. The propeller struck her and the farmer got $5 damages.

BANK TRUSTEES NAMED BY RAIL BROTHERHOOD

Three Men Will Handle Future Financial Ventures of Organization, Plan

Cleveland, July 9—The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers in convention here, today had placed supervision of the Brotherhood banks and investment companies in the care of three trustees, who will handle the future financial ventures of the organization and report to Grand Chief Alvanely Johnston, now in complete executive control of the brotherhood, and to the brotherhood advisory board.

In addition to S. H. Huff, of Boston, named as trustee Thursday, W. G. Van Pelt, of Pittsburgh, Kas., and J. L. McDermand, of Great Falls, Mont., were selected at yesterday's secret session of the triennal membership meeting.

Huff was former president of the B. of L. E. Cooperative Trust Co. in New York, and more recently vice president of the engineers' National Bank at Boston. Van Pelt is president of the Pittsburgh Loan & Finance Co., and also chairman of the Kansas City Southwestern Railroad Brotherhood committee, while McDermand is president of the Labor National Bank at Great Falls.

The three trustees, it is understood, will not have active management of any of the brotherhood's financial institutions. These will be managed by the most efficient and competent bankers available, if it becomes necessary to make changes in the present executive management, it was said.

BLAST KILLS MOTHER AND HER SIX CHILDREN

Explosion Near Reading, Pa., Attributed by Detective to Still in Cellar

Reading, Pa., July 9—Mrs. Catherine M. Fair, 35, and her six small children perished early today when an explosion fired their home near Bernville, 12 miles northwest of here.

Mrs. Fair's husband, Mark, who is in a critical condition in Homeopathic Hospital, and his friend, Angelo Consoli were burned seriously also. The men escaped by leaping from a second story window after vainly trying to rescue the trapped family.

Mrs. Fair, who expected a visit from the stork soon, and the children, Florence, 15, Catherine, 14, Virginia, 10, Luddy, 5, Fern, 3, and Miriam, 1, were asleep on the second floor when suddenly a terrific blast shook the neighborhood.

Fair told police the explosion was caused by an oil stove. Harry Hilpinger, chief of Berks County detectives, says, however, that the tragedy was due to a still operated in the cellar. Hilpinger claims he found several articles used in the manufacture of liquor among the wreckage.

POSSIBLE THAT INSANITY MAY BE DEFENSE PLEA

Speculation on Southern Illinois Murder Case Rife; Attorneys in Panic

Benton, Ill., July 9—Speculation as to the ultimate defense of Charles Birger, "Ray "Izzy" Hyland, and Art Newman, southern Illinois gangsters on trial here for the murder of Mayor Joe Adams of West City last December, was rife here today following several unguarded remarks of the defense counsel, indicating that an insanity plea would be fully justified by the present actions of two of the defendants.

Attorneys for Birger were thrown into a panic over their client's talkative mood following Newman's threat of exposing Birger's connections with two W. F. Dillon, attorney for Newman other unsolved murders in Little Egypt, whose revelation to state authorities has already put responsibility for the murder of State Highway Policeman Lory L. Price and his wife on Birger, openly stated that he would make one more attempt to silence his client and if unsuccessful would appeal to the court or withdraw from the case.

A conference between Birger's four lawyers was then held and with a stenographer all went to the county jail, and after an hour's stay came out and issued a statement by their client denying Newman's charges.

Efforts to select the jury which will try the three gangsters have been postponed until Monday due to [illegible] Clarion H. Miller being called to his home.

HENRY FORD INVITED TO LEVINE RECEPTION

Letter Mailed to Auto Magnate Following His Apology to Jewish People

New York, July 9—Henry Ford, following his public retraction of anti-semitic articles which have appeared in his Dearborn Independent, was to receive an invitation today to participate in the "welcome home" celebration to Charles A. Levine, who with Clarence Chamberlin recently flew across the Atlantic Ocean, when Levine returns to his home at Rockaway Park, Queens.

The invitation to Mr. Ford to be present and take part in the celebration was sent by Richard M. Gipson, president of the Rockaway Chamber of Commerce, which is planning the reception for Levine upon his return. The letter reads in part:

"At this time, when you have so magnanimously attested your faith in the Jewish people, it would be fitting that you should be present at the banquet to be held upon the return of Mr. Levine by air from France.

"The Rockaways, though cosmopolitan in population, are the homes of many distinguished people of the Jewish race. Your presence here would be a striking evidence of the faith which you attest in them."

Because of the uncertainty of the date of the arrival of Levine in the United States the committee in charge of the arrangements for the reception have announced the banquet and parade will be held the day following his arrival, now tentatively set for July 29.

BYRD AND CREW LEAVE PARIS ON TOUR OF FRANCE

American Fliers To Sail for United States Tuesday Aboard Leviathan

Paris, July 9—Cheered by huge crowds, Comm. Richard F. Byrd and the crew of the America, Bert Acosta, G. O. Noville and Bernt Balchen, bade farewell today to Paris where they have been showered with honors for the last 10 days.

They left at noon from the Gare du Nord for Calais aboard the "Golden Arrow," the Nord Railway Company's crack train.

Dense throngs of people surrounded the railroad depot and gave the American fliers a resounding send-off. Byrd and his companions repeatedly waved to the crowd.

From Calais the fliers will motor to Dunkirk, arriving in that channel port, tonight.

Dunkirk is preparing a great welcome for them.

The fliers will go to Le Touquet, French watering place, for a brief rest after the Dunkirk reception.

They will leave Le Touquet Monday for a leisurely 200-mile motor trip to Cherbourg, from which port they sail on Tuesday on the giant Leviathan for the United States where they will be given a big reception upon their arrival. Clarence O. Chamberlin, New York to Paris flier, will also board the Leviathan at Cherbourg.

Washington, July 9—Great Britain's insistence at Geneva upon an enormous cruiser tonnage—twice what the American and Japanese government consider sufficient—is "wholly inexplicable" to the United States, and under no circumstances will be agreed to, it was asserted today at the state department.

The American viewpoint was pronounced with such a degree of finality, and marked irritation, that it looks ill for the continuance of the Geneva negotiations if Britain persists in her demand.

JOHN DREW IS CLAIMED AFTER GALLANT FIGHT

Veteran American Actor Dies at California Home; Ill Five Weeks

ON STAGE HALF CENTURY

Appeared with Many Famous Players; Stricken While on Tour

San Francisco, July 9—John Drew, veteran American actor, died this morning at 6 a. m. after a five weeks illness of arthritis and septic poisoning.

Drew was 70 years old.

At the actor's bedside when the end came were his daughter, and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Devereaux and Drew's famous nephew, John Barrymore, stage and screen star.

Several times Drew has come dangerously near to death in his long and gallant fight against arthritis, but each time he surprised everyone by making a surprising rally.

"He refused to yield an inch," Dr. Hoffman said, commenting upon Drew's brave fight, "and he smiled and refused to see when death took that inch anyway."

Stricken May 31

Drew was stricken on May 31 in Portland, Ore., while on a western tour with a revival of one of his early successes, "Trelawney of the Wells." He was hurried by train to San Francisco. Since then his condition was extremely critical, fluctuating between life-sapping sinking spells and courageous rallies.

Drew was conscious during the entire period of his illness. His courtesy and kindliness endeared him to the nurses and doctors who watched him play his last great part as these same qualities had made him beloved at the peak of his stage career.

For more than 50 years Drew was identified with the American stage. During this half century he became more than an actor; he became an in-

BANKERS' VOICE FIGHT SHIFTS TO [illegible]

Ohio District Head Plans Conference with President of National Group

Columbus, July 9—The wage controversy between Ohio union miners and the operators in the central competitive field, today shifted to Indianapolis, headquarters of the United Mine Workers of America, and of John L. Lewis, president of the organization with the announcement of Lee Hall, president of the Ohio district, that he was arranging to visit Indianapolis early next week for a conference with the miners' chief executive.

Copies of the Ohio miners' refusal to accept the $5 wage scale offered by the operators, were dispatched to Lewis Friday after adoption of the rejection resolution was passed here by the executive committee.

The miners' rejection petitioned the operators to meet with union officials of the central competitive field, including Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, with the object of continuing the scale conference of Miami, Fla., and arrive at a scale for the central field.

Hall declared today that the controversy in Ohio was being precipitated by 13 large mine operators who control non-union mines in Kentucky and West Virginia, whose holdings in these states benefit by the closing of mines in Ohio. Hall declared the fight was not as much a wage dispute as an effort on the part of these operators to force Ohio miners and operators to meet the conditions which they have fixed in the non-union fields of Kentucky and West Virginia, where the wage scale is [illegible] the $5 maximum scale now [illegible]

New Orleans, La., July 9—Gen. A. C. Dalton, president of the United States Lines today expressed amazement when informed that Capt. Hewett Hartley, commander of the Leviathan had been offered the post of navigator of the proposed New York to Rome air flight.

"I can make no statement until Capt. Hartley himself puts the details of the proposition before me," he said when asked if Hartley would be given leave of absence to make the flight.

MARION PACKING CONCERN UNDER RECEIVER RULE

Local Company To Suspend Operations as Court Action Result

H. B. HANE APPOINTED

Plant West of City and All Other Property To Be Sold

The Marion Packing Co. has been placed in the hands of a receiver and will suspend operations at the close of business today as the result of an action started in the court of common pleas this morning by the Marion County Bank Co., one of its creditors.

Following filing of a motion by the bank, declaring that the company is insolvent and giving three other reasons for asking for a receivership, Judge Scofield appointed Henry B. Hane, president of the Marion National Bank, to act as receiver and liquidate the affairs of the concern. Mr. Hane qualified by filing bond of $5,000.

Several Prospective Buyers

The packing plant operated by the company west of the city and all other property owned by it will be sold by the receiver. There are several prospective buyers for the plant attorneys interested in the case stated today, and it is probable that the business will be started again by the purchaser. All of the companies who are considering bidding for the property represent interests outside of Marion, it was stated.

Although no definite figures are available, it was indicated today that assets will probably balance liabilities and that creditors will be paid in full.

Agreement to close up the business and place it in the hands of a receiver was reached at a conference of the company's board of directors and the largest creditors held early this week. At the same meeting it was unanimously agreed to recommend Mr. Hane's appointment as receiver.

$6,897.50 Action Filed

The receivership action brought by the Marion County Bank Co. was based upon a cognovit judgment of $5,897.50 taken by the bank this morning on a note which it holds against the packing corporation. The action was filed through John H. Clark, attorney for the bank.

The four reasons cited by the bank as grounds for requesting a receivership were: first, that it was necessary to have a receiver appointed to carry the judgment into effect; second, that the company is insolvent; third, that the company's directors at a meeting duly called had voted unanimously for naming of a receiver; fourth, that the corporation is about to discontinue business and that property, especially the personal property, will greatly depreciate in value if a receiver is not appointed to take charge.

The packing company has been operating at a loss for a considerable time, it was stated today.

City Facing Complete Tie-Up of Motor Traffic in Wage War

BULLETIN

Chicago, July 9—Chicago's gas strike and walkout is ended.

At meeting this afternoon gasoline companies effected a compromise agreement with representatives of the union.

Filling stations are to be reopened at once.

Chicago, July 9—While more than a half million motorists vainly sought garage "cases" for small allotments of precious gasoline in the greatest gas strike and lockout here in the history of the motor gas industry, the United States government stepped in and announced a speedy settlement of the strike if it interferes with transportation of the mails or interstate commerce.

Chicago, July 9—America's first major city gasoline strike descended upon Chicago today, severely crippling motor transportation in four counties.

Three thousands employes were thrown out of work. Eighteen hundred filling stations were closed. Gasoline is procurable only in small lots from garages and that supply is estimated to end before nightfall.

The streets of Chicago present an appearance dating back more than 30 years to the horse area.

Slight prospect of settlement was seen over the week-end.

Employes Vote Walkout

The move was precipitated by employes of the Sinclair Refining Co., who voted a walkout unless their demands of a monthly wage increase were granted. The last minute decision of four larger oil companies which automatically closed their service stations followed.

An all-day conference yesterday and a midnight conference last night between managers of the oil companies and union officials broke up without any agreement being reached. Compromise, however, were suggested.

A new meeting was called for today in hope of averting a gasless Sunday.

More than 700,000 gallons of gasoline are consumed in the metropolitan area of Chicago daily. Sunday consumption runs well over 1,000,000 gallons.

500,000 Affected

More than 500,000 automobile owners have been affected.

Persons in touch with labor situations in the United States declared that the lockout, as an example of direct action, is one of the most drastic steps

FUNERAL PROCESSIONS

We have evolved what we consider to be the best method of taking care of the cars in funeral processions in the traffic zone of the city.

When cars in a funeral procession approach traffic zones let each driver turn his lights on.

This is far more simple than cards or stickers on the windshield and it is absolutely effective in traffic.

This is the method we use for all funeral cars.

Find "The" One' and Then Kiss Her, Pastor Advises

[Dr. Daniel A. Poling has been president of the United Societies of Christian Endeavor since 1926. Born in Portland, Ore., in 1884, he was graduated from Dallas (Ore.) College in 1904, and took his theological work of Lafayette Seminary in that state. He has been active in prohibition circles and in 1912 was Prohibition candidate for governor of Ohio. During the war he did special war work in the British Isles, France and Germany. Dr. Poling is pastor of the Marble Collegiate Reformed Church in New York City.]

Dr. Daniel A. Poling

NEW YORK, July 9—"How long should a young man go with a young woman before he is allowed to kiss her?"

That may seem a foolish question to grown folk who have forgotten the days of their youth and courtship, but to young men and women it's a serious matter and a difficult one to settle. Recognizing this when that question was propounded to him, at a "question hour" for young folk, Dr. Daniel A. Poling, pastor of the Marble Collegiate Reformed Church, New York, and president of the International Christian Endeavor Union, gave this answer:

A Vital Question

"This is a vital question. I am glad that the young man is thinking about being granted a privilege, and that he does not contemplate taking advantage of a situation and forcing his attention upon a young woman. My advice is that before asking, the young man should go with the young woman long enough to find out that she is the choice of his mind and the beloved of his heart."

Asked just how a young man could tell whether the young woman in question was "the" girl for him, Dr. Poling admitted the question has no answer.

"There are certain situations in life that just can't be reduced to test tube demonstrations," he laughingly tells you, "when a young man is truly in love he just knows it and no one can explain how he knows.

Seen Progress of Youth

"I have been in Christian Endeavor work in 20 years and I've seen all classes of young folk. It seems to me that the young couple of today about to be married, have a much clearer idea of what marriage means than they did years ago. More knowledge is at their disposal than in former years, freedom of the press and pen is greater than ever before.

"But after all, young men in love are pretty much the same in every age."

Scores Sensationalists

Persons who believe that the youth of today is headed "straight for hell" get no sympathy from Dr. Poling. He scores sensationalists who, seeing one young man intoxicated, immediately conclude that the morals of the young are not what they used to be.

"They forget," he says, "that hundreds of thousands of boys and girls do not carry hip flasks and have no intention of doing so".

He is a believer in placing confidence in children an dencouraging them to run their own affairs. Dr. Poling is in close touch with the children in his parish, one of the most fashionable in New York, and with the mission supported by his church in Hell's Kitchen, one of New York's roughest sections, and he has found the children of these extremes of society alike in their desire to get ahead and their capacity for accepting responsibility.

Holds Weekly Conferences

Every Sunday afternoon Dr. Poling holds a conference with the young people of his church which is broadcast.

"Often grown persons expect youngsters to ask questions about matters on international concern rather than personal affairs. I believe the personal questions very important and I do not attempt to discourage them. Even if I think the question asked a trifle silly I answer it seriously.

"I don't attempt to fill the pews of my church. I attempt to fill the people who sit in them and I don't have to worry about attendance. Young people want to find out about religion for themselves. They don't accept blindly what you tell them. It's my opinion that we're getting a lot more from the young folk than we deserve—they are giving us a whole lot more than we are giving them. Instead of giving them our confidence we are suspicious of them and plant wrong ideas in their minds that were not there until we suggested them.

"Young folk are not going from the ballroom to hell. They are intrinically fine and good."

Arrangements Being Made For Marion County Fair To Be Held From Sept. 13 to 16

Event This Year Will Close Friday Night Since Experience Has Proven Saturday Showings Unprofitable; Much Larger Attendance Anticipated

Arrangements are now under way for the annual Marion County fair, to be a four-day event this year instead of lasting five days, the change to take effect during the last few days.

The closing the fair on Saturday has proven to be an unprofitable feature and as a consequence the Marion County Agricultural Society, the organization in charge of the annual event, has decided to bring it to a close on Friday this year. This and other changes in the plans were outlined in a letter coming today from Roland Hedges, secretary of the agricultural society.

Dates This Year

The dates for this year's fair are Sept. 13 to 16, inclusive, the same dates as last year's fair took place. Weather conditions were unfavorable during the time and as a result the 1926 fair was less successful than anticipated, attendance falling considerably below expectations.

With the weatherman in a more friendly and co-operative mood this year the management is expecting a larger attendance and unusually attractive exhibits in all departments.

The premium list and race program are now being compiled and will probably be made public next week. Races will be held Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, the last three days of the fair and a large field of starters is assured in every event, the entry list at this time being unusually large, officers of the fair board report.

Two Night Fairs

In addition to the usual program during the four days, two night fairs will be held, Wednesday and Thursday.

A long established feature of the fair, which has been listed among the regular exhibits since the county began holding its annual exposition more than a half century ago will not be included in this year's program.

The display of gaily colored quilts, embroidery, doilies, napkins, pillows and various other artistic productions of feminine needlecraft which has ornamented the arts' hall at the fair in the past has become a thing of the past as the result of a decision recently made by the Marion County Agricultural Society.

Hand-painted china is also due for the discard, according to present plans.

Fine Art Display

In place of these articles there is to be an exhibit of pictures and other works of art which is to be in charge of the Marion County Federation of Women's Clubs. This department of the art hall has been placed in full charge of the federation and officers of that organization are now making preliminary plans for the exhibit.

It is expected that the art exhibit will be one of the most attractive and interesting features of future county fairs. Display of art work by children of the city and county schools is expected to be included.

CONTRACTS LET ON COURTHOUSE IMPROVEMENT

John Baldauf & Sons Low Bidders on Remodeling and Redecorating

John Baldauf & Sons, local building firm, was awarded the contracts, yesterday, for remodeling and redecorating the common pleas courtroom and plans are now under way to start the work Monday.

The Baldaufs were low bidders on both the remodeling and painting jobs. A list of the bidders and their bids follows:

General remodeling — John Baldauf & Sons, $6,346; Crock & McPeck, $6,400.

Painting — John Baldauf & Sons, $1,424; Charles A. Raymond, $1,466; Harry L. Topliff, $1,525.

All of the bidders were from Marion. The painting contract, Baldauf stated, will be sublet to Miller & Davidson, a Luma firm.

Both contracts were let below the architect's estimate, which stipulated $6,500 for the remodeling work and $1,600 for painting.

The work is to be done in accordance with plans drawn up by J. Lewis Ellis, local architect employed by the board of county commissioners. The contracts were awarded at a meeting of the board held at its office in the court house yesterday afternoon.

Provides Law Library

The plans call for construction of a partition to convert the courtroom into two rooms, one to be used as a law library and the other for court purposes. The south wall of the court room is to be reconstructed and straightened in order to provide a suitable office for the judge. The room in which the law library is now located is to be fitted up as a waiting room for court witnesses. The present arrangement of court quarters provides no room for this purpose.

All of the walls and woodwork are to be refinished and painted.

The courtroom remodeling is a part of plans for general alterations which have been outlined for the entire court house. The commissioners propose to add a fourth story to the structure by having an additional floor installed between the present third floor and the roof. The plans also include an elevator and numerous changes which would provide additional room for the various offices.

Bond Issue Necessary

The major part of the remodeling program can not be carried out, however, unless authority is granted by the voters. It is estimated that all of the work proposed would cost approximately $50,000 and to finance the project it would be necessary to issue bonds.

The commissioners are without authority to proceed with work of this kind costing more than $10,000 and as a consequence the project must be submitted to a vote of the people. It is intended to do this at next fall's election.

The courtroom improvement, which is urgently needed, will cost less than $10,000, thus making it possible for the commissioners to proceed with it without submitting it to a vote. Sufficient funds to pay for the improvement are in the treasury so that issuance of bonds will not be necessary, the commissioners state.

Under terms of the contract, Baldauf & Sons are to complete the courtroom job on or before Sept. 8. While the work is in progress, Judge Seofield will conduct court in either his office or the probate courtroom.

MEMORIAL HEAD TO CHECK WORK ON TOMB HERE

Former United States Senator Frelinghuysen, New Jersey, Here July 13

Former United States Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, of New Jersey, president of the Harding Memorial Association, will be in Marion on July 13 to conduct an inspection of work done thus far in construction of the Harding tomb and to discuss plans for landscaping and other details of work planned for this year.

Announcement of plans for the inspection was received yesterday by Hoke Donithen, local members of The memorial association Henry Hornbostel of Pittsburgh, the architect who designed the memorial tomb, E. P. Mellon of New York City, advisory architect, and A. D. Taylor, of Cleveland, landscape architect who has planned arrangement of the grounds surrounding the tomb, will also be here to take part in the inspection and hold a conference with Mr Frelinghuysen.

According to the program as outlined at this time, a large part of the landscaping will be done this year, the intention being to start as soon as construction of the tomb has advanced sufficiently to make work on the grounds possible.

Progress Rapid

Rapid progress has been made during the last few weeks and the massive marble columns which are to encircle the tomb have been partially completed.

It is expected that should similar progress be made during the remainder of the summer, arrangements will be made for transferring the bodies of the late President and Mrs. Harding from the Marion cemetery vault to the memorial tomb before the close of this year.

The tomb will not be completed and dedicated until next year, probably on July 4 or on the anniversary date of President Harding's death, according to present plans of the memorial association.

YOU know the tough part about a Hero is that he has to eat. We take darn' of them with too much News-paper space and not enough permanent endowment. We have great fellows back from the War that can show you two Medals for every sack of Flour they have in the House. They got a Foreign Decoration for every American Dollar they have!

Heroing

Heroing is one of the shortest lifed professions there is.

Liberty

We do something for every Fool Thing in the World. One time in New York I played at a big Benefit to get a Statue of Liberty for Russia. Now can you imagine Russia with a Statue of Liberty? We don't even know if they want one or not. If they do want one, we will loan them ours.

Scientists

I wish those Scientists run the Railroads. It's funny those Guys can tell you just to the minute when something is going to happen 10 million miles away and none of them has ever been smart enough to tell you what day to put on your heavy underwear.

They are always studying out what some other worlds and Planets are doing. Better find out what this one is doing. It's been acting mighty crazy here lately. Long as these Planets and Worlds keep on passing we are all right; it's when they don't pass each other! But that will be too late to do anything about it.

Conferences

I have often said it is cheaper for America to go to War than it is for us to Confer with anybody. It's funny, but we can talk our heads off until it comes to a time when it means something and then we are as Dumb as an Oyster.

A Great Invention

Mr. Ford tried his first car out in the room at his boarding house and it made so much noise that Mrs. Ford said it kept Edsel awake. They moved it into the street and since then it has kept Everybody awake.

One Famous Year

In 1914, in addition to Archduke Francis of Austria being assassinated, and causing a war for the last reason that any war had ever been started, all up the River and drop 'em in and let 'em assemble themselves as they went over the Dam. Then he had one more over the Dam. Then he had one older one that would teach the others to swim out on their own power.

Wide Open Spaces

We have had a great deal of ridicule on the stage and kidding in the papers about the expression, "from the wide open spaces where men are men." That of course was started by the boneheadedness of some Scenario Title Writer in the Movies, who would put in such a Title and then the audience would see some wary haired Bird that had been weaned out of an Ice Box and raised in the shade of a Radiator. Well, regardless of those misleading

The hero has to eat.

Titles there are Men out there, and the broader the spaces the more real Men you will find and don't let anybody tell you there ain't.

Rich Men

All of our disgustingly rich men are at a loss to know what to do with their money. Funny none of them ever thought of giving it back to the people they got it from. Instead of these men giving money to found Colleges to promote learning, why don't they pass A Constitutional Amendment prohibiting anybody learning anything? And if it works as good as the Prohibition one did, in 5 years we would have the smartest race of people on earth.

A Test for Liquor

The Chemists have a Steel Bar they put down in the neck of the Bottle. They hold it there a couple of minutes and when they take it out if it has just merely rusted the Bar, why it is all right, but if it has bent the Bar why then you better not take it straight; you better dilute it with something. (Kerosene, or Lysol or anything mild.)

A Smart Girl

I called on a Business man at his office the other day, when the Girl outside his office phoned him, he said for me to come right in. The Girl looked astonished at his quick reply, and said to me: "Why you can get in there as quick as a Bootlegger."

Politicians

Every politician, the minute Congress and the Senate adjourn, rushes home, renews his Notes at the Bank and starts in on the Lecture or Chautauqua platform.

Public Salaries

The bad part about the whole structure of our paying Public officials is that we name a sum and give them all the same, regardless of ability. No other business in the World has a fixed sum to pay all their employees the same salary. Take, for instance, Borah: If our Government was run as a Business and not as a Charity Organization, how much would you have to pay him? How many Congressmen and Senators is he worth to us? Yet he has no chance to get any more money than some Bird who, when sent there, it takes him two years to find the Capitol with a Guide Book. Even his kin folks back home have to think twice before they can remember where he is. If some efficiency expert would work out a scheme where each one would be paid according to his ability, I think we would have a lot of money. I don't know why Mr. Coolidge, as one of his economy measures, has not thought of that. But I guess a fellow in a high position like that can't think of everything.

A Proposed Tax

There should be a Tax on every man that wanted to get a Government appointment or be elected to office. In two years that tax alone would pay our National debt. Half the people in the United States would rather collect one dollar from the Government than get $10 from an Individual.

Bolshevism

England can teach any Country in the world how to handle discontent. (Maybe it's because they have more of it.) They give 'em a Park, Hyde Park, they even furnish the Soap Boxes (as the former contents of the Box is generally as foreign to the Speakers as his Nationality is to the Country he is speaking in.) Give 'em a Hall or a Box to stand on and say "Sic 'em; knock everything in sight" and when they have denounced everything from Bunions to Capitalistic Bath Tubs, then they will go home, write all week on another speech for the following Sunday and you never have any trouble with them.

It's just like an exhaust on an Automobile. No matter how high priced the Car, you have to have an exit for its bad air, and Gasses. They have got to come out. It don't do any particular harm, unless you just stand around behind smelling of it all the time, but who would want to follow a Car to smell of its exhaust when you could just as well be in the car riding?

Now sometimes there is a loud explosion, and everybody on the streets will turn around and see what it is. The minute they see, they will go right on with their business. They know there has been no damage done. So that's how it is with this so called Radical Element. Let them have a Park or a Hell as an exhaust pipe. Then when they have some particular Noted Denouncer, why, you will hear a loud report. You will listen, or read what he said and go on about your business the same as the listeners to a backfire. You know it's necessary.

Important Folk

We lost Roosevelt, a tough blow. I thought in three months Turkey would hold a protectorate over us. But here we are still kicking. So, if we can spare men like Roosevelt and Wilson there is no use in any other Politician ever taking himself serious.

For the week of June 25, reports showed 1,018,206 cars loaded with revenue freight. This was an increase of 1,855 cars over the preceding week, increases being reported in the loadings of all commodities except forest products and merchandise.

Friendship of 40 Years Given Touching Climax by Senator at Schoolmate's Bier

FORTY years ago, two youths who had been close friends and schoolmates during their boyhood days in Delaware County came to the close of this carefree period and started out on life's pathway, one taking a course which was destined to lead him to stations of unusual eminence while the other traveled the humbler walks of life.

Although their journey through the years elapsing since that time was widely divergent, the bond of friendship between the two remained firm and unbroken and when death overtook one of them at his home in this city several days ago, no friend mourned more than his old boyhood chum.

The characters in this unusual story are Frank B. Willis, one of Ohio's two United States senators and former governor of the state, and Harry Eli Elliott, whose death occurred Wednesday at his home, 230 Park blvd. Prior to his last illness, which began about five months ago, Mr Elliott was employed as custodian of the Marion Steam Shovel Co. office building.

Delivers Eulogy

Yesterday Senator Willis attended the funeral services of his boyhood chum and delivered a eulogy in which he lauded Mr. Elliott for his sterling character and his life as a high type American citizen. The senator's talk, lasting about 15 minutes, was given in connection with the funeral rites held at Fite Memorial Church on Davids-st.

Since his earliest years, on through the time that he attended school with Willis in Delaware County and in all of years leading up to the day of his death, Mr. Elliott was noted for his sincerity and integrity, which won him lasting friendship, the senator said. He urged all in the large audience who heard his talk to strive to live along the same lines. In closing he quoted the final lines of Bryant's poem, "Thanatopsis."

Recalls Boyhood Incidents

In the eulogy, Senator Willis recalled incidents of his boyhood association with Mr Elliott, pointing to them as being evidence even at that early stage in life of the admirable qualities of the man.

He pictured the little country schoolhouse where they were classmates. Double seats were used in the building, he said, and he and his chum occupied the same seat.

The eulogy was impromptu, no plans having been made in advance to have Senator Willis take part in the services. His talk was given in response to a request made shortly after his arrival at the Elliott home yesterday afternoon and while waiting for the services to start.

Fite Memorial Church was filled to capacity by friends and relatives of Mr Elliott, those in attendance including many Steam Shovel company employes. Mr. Elliott was a charter member of the church and had always been one of the leaders in its activities.

Leads Work As Teacher

Senator Willis commented upon his loyalty to church and religion, making special mention of Mr. Elliott's service as teacher of the Willing Workers' Class of the Sunday school, a class made up of young married people.

He spoke in particular of the fact that Rev. W. S. Young, pastor of Fite Memorial Church, and Rev. Earl Holliday, pastor of Emanuel Baptist, are former members of the class and were ordained as ministers while Mr. Elliott served as teacher.

Reverend Young delivered the funeral sermon, taking as his subject, "Death of the Believer," and Reverend Holiday assisted in the services.

Special music, including songs by a quartet, was a part of the services. The opening service took place at the home at 1:30, followed by the main rites at the church and burial at Marion Cemetery. Senator Willis was present at all three services.

Fraternal Groups Attend

Delegations of the Junior Order of American Mechanics and the Odd Fellows, organizations with which Mr. Elliott was affiliated, attended and the Odd Fellows conducted their ritualistic service.

Senator Willis came to Marion yesterday from his home in Delaware County, located near the place where he and Mr. Elliott attended school together.

Several weeks ago he visited the Elliott home and spent several hours with his old friend, who was then stricken with the illness which finally caused his death.

LEVINE PLANS TO CONFER WITH BRITISH ACE

Arrangements for Trip to London by Train Are Changed

Paris, July 9—Charles A. Levine, who planned to leave for London by train today, changed his mind at the last minute and, accompanied by Mrs. Levine, went to Le Bourget Field with the intention of flying to England. The weather was bad for flying and they were forced to wait all afternoon at the field. It was thought likely that they would depart in a French plane at 6:30 p. m.

Levine plans to consult with Sir Alan Cobham, famous British aviator, in London. He assured reporters, that Maurice Drouhin, French pilot, will fly him back to New York in the Columbia.

"My promise to the French public stands," said Levine. "Drouhin will pilot the Columbia."

Levine declared he had intended to see Sir Alan when he flew with Drouhin and Clarence Chamberlin to London yesterday but missed the British flyer.

They'll Forget, Levine Says

His attention was called to the bitterness shown by some French newspapers because of his having engaged Drouhlin, the only French pilot who had been preparing to attempt the first east-to-west transatlantic flight, and taking him away from a French company.

"The criticism of Drouhin will be forgotten as soon as we land in New York," was Levine's reply.

He refused to confirm or deny reports that he gave Drouhin a contract for one year calling for payments of $150,000.

"We cannot hop off before the last of July as some work has to be done on the Columbia," said Levine. "Our take off probably will be later than that."

"I'm not worried about my husband flying the ocean on this new flight of his," said Mrs. Levine. "He has my blessing."

A mild furore has been created in France by the action of Drouhin, in quitting the Farman Co. and contracting to fly Levine back to the state.

Painleve Offers Help

Minister of War Painleve today informed officials of the Farman Co., that he would support them in their plan to engage another French pilot to take Drouhin's place and hop off in a Farman "Bluebird biplane as soon as possible for New York.

The Farman plane is practically ready for a take-off while Levine's plane will not be in condition for about two weeks.

Drouhin, and Mr. and Mrs. Levine, returned from London last night in the Columbia wit hthe French pilot at the stick. On the trip to London yesterday Drouhin was shown the workings of the big plane by Clarence D. Chamberlin, New York to Germany flier, who declined to fly back with Levine to America.

More than 400 Lybarger descendants attended the reunion, which was held on the farm where James A. Knapp's mother was born. Her maiden name was Lydia Lybarger.

The family pioneers came to this country from Germany in 1732, locating first at Philadelphia.

It is planned to hold reunions annually and the one next year will probably take place at Madley, Pa., the scene of this year's assemblage.

YOUTH IS SENTENCED TO MANSFIELD REFORMATORY

Anthony Catalano, 16, Pleads Guilty to Automobile Stealing

An indeterminate sentence in the Mansfield Reformatory, was drawn yesterday afternoon by Anthony Catalano, the 16 year old youth arrested at the intersection of N. Main and Church-sts Wednesday afternoon while in the act of stealing a Buick sedan, when he entered a plea of guilty to a charge of automobile stealing before Judge L. B. McNeal in juvenile court.

Following his arrest Wednesday, Catalano told police he had stolen four automobiles that day which he used as a means to get to his home in Columbus. A Cadillac sedan which he stole in Lima, he abandoned east of this city when he discovered the bearings had been burned out. His arrest was brought about by Henry Logsdon, of Louisville, who when he suspected the car was being stolen, leaped into the machine and overpowered the Columbus youth.

THREE ADMIT STEALING LOCAL MAN'S MACHINE

Trio Arrested at Orville Returned by Police to This City

Three young men who gave their homes as Pittsburgh, and who, according to police, admitted stealing a Hudson touring car belonging to Ross Corn, of this city, were arrested in Orville this morning by the police of that place.

According to word received by the police here from the police department at Orville, the three young men who were driving a Hudson coach when arrested, admitted stealing the car belonging to Corn and driving it to a town east of this city, the name of which they said they did not know, where they abandoned the Marion car and stole a Hudson coach.

The Corn car, which carried Ohio license No 702-011 was stolen from Oakat sometime during last night. The place of its abandonment had not been found by the police yet this afternoon.

The men who gave their names as William Schenly, George Wiant and Joe McDonald, were brought back to this city late this afternoon by local police.

Guard Autos

As the day advanced luckless motorists were seen standing guard over their automobiles which had become stalled when ther owners overestimated the amount of gasoline in the tanks. And the cars can not be towed to garages. Towing automobiles have no gasoline.

Policemen have been ordered to attempt to prevent theft and looting of automobiles and parts.

The "world's busiest corner"—State and Madison-sts, in the heart of the loop, presented a dismal appearance today with only surface cars and a few trucks and pleasure cars obeying the stoplights. For the first time in many years the traffic policeman's whistle was silent.

JOHN DREW

stitution. He was a member of a noted stage family which had been prominently identified with the theatre for generations.

Born in Philadelphia

John Drew was born in Philadelphia on Nov 13, 1853, the son of John and Louisa Lane Drew, both well known to American audiences in those early days of the American stage.

Being so born, Drew could not very well escape his subsequent career, and he never voiced a regret that he had chosen the actor's profession.

At the age of 20, Drew began his illustrious stage career at the Arch Street Theater, Philadelphia.

In his own book, "Many Years on the Stage," Drew recounted, in his always genial manner, his experience when he first "trod the boards."

"I guess I was pretty cocky in those days," he said.

He played the role of Mr Plumper in "Cool as a Cucumber" and according to critics, displayed a tendency to laugh at his own lines.

Attended Academy

Before he was launched on his stage career, Drew attended the Village Green Military Academy.

While a member of the Augustin Daly Co., Drew met his future wife, Josephine Baker. They were married in New York in 1880. At that time he was appearing in a melodrama called "Under The Gaslight."

Many full years followed for Drew. His "barnstorming" tours took him to every state in the country, where he encountered all sorts of experiences and met all kinds of people.

Drew appeared with many famous actors during his career. A year after he went to New York found him playing the role of "Rosencrantz" in a company headed by Edwin Booth.

Later he appeared with Fanny Davenport, Maude Adams, Mrs. Leslie Carter and many others.

Greatest Play

"Rosemary," produced in 1896, was always considered by Drew as being his most successful play. Other plays in which he took the leads were "The Masked Ball," "The Rauble Shop," "The Square of Dames," "The Marriage of Convenience" and many more.

Two years ago he appeared on tour in "The Circle" and he was taking the leading part in "Teelawnee of the Wells" when he was taken ill in Portland.

During the first six months of the present year, 3,835 cars were stolen up in Cleveland. The Cleveland motto seems to be "Let the other fellow buy them."

A Chicago man has undertaken to sit atop the flag pole of the Morrison hotel up there for two weeks, possibly hoping to demonstrate that living in Chicago is safe enough if one avoids evil communications.

It rained about the middle of the week, as the weather bureau's long-range weather prophets told us last Saturday that it would, which goes to show that that old one to the effect that accidents will happen still holds good.

One of the questions asked up at the Christian Endeavor convention in Cleveland was in regard to how long a young man should go with a girl before kissing her. If she's a normal girl, that's a question she will decide for herself.

The Chicago Symphony orchestra may be disbanded as the result of the demand of the musicians for a basic rate of $80 a week for straight time. There's this to be said for the demand of the musicians; they possibly have a right to figure on the hazard of living in Chicago.

A Brooklyn court has decided that a husband has a right to complain about his wife's cooking, but any husband with as much wisdom as a rabbit will be mighty careful not to do it in this age of emancipated womanhood.

Commenting on the fact that Representative Hamilton Fish, Jr., of New York, favors "the sale of beer in bottles in grocery stores," the Boston Transcript asks: "Why bar the fish markets and the meat shops?" That's the stuff. And why bar the barber shops, beauty parlors and tobacco stores? Why not give the girls a chance?

The Cincinnati Enquirer remarks that police records indicate that a more rigid enforcement of the eighteenth amendment is needed in certain sections of the Queen City. It's hard to understand what would call out a declaration like that in Cincinnati; unless the sections in question have offended against good husbandry by using the stuff for bath purposes.

Another "Romance" Shattered.

The sentencing of twenty-one-year-old Helen Kenkel, of Chicago, to from three to twenty years in the penitentiary adds another chapter to the "romance" of another young "bandit queen." It may be recalled that, until a few months ago, about every young woman engaged in crime was some kind of a queen or other and the slush writers endeavored to make a romance out of their love affairs. Helen's case was no exception to the rule. She and three male companions—one of them her "sweetheart"—were members of a hold-up gang. Two of her companions received sentences of the same measure as that given her, but the other, a boy of nineteen, was let off with a sentence of from one to ten years.

This young "bandit queen," soon after the capture of the gang by the use of tear bombs, acquired the name of "Hardboiled Helen," so dubbed by the police from her defiant attitude and her conviction that she would escape punishment owing to her sex and her good looks. But she was not hardboiled when the court turned a deaf ear to her tearful pleadings. She fainted, and was practically carried from the court-room by two bailiffs.

No, the sex stuff isn't going with courts and juries as it once did. Women criminals are receiving punishment for their crimes. The courts no longer are touched by the "romance" rot, and "bandit queens" are becoming grist for the legal mills. Sex and good looks no longer afford escape from punishment, and the sooner girls and young women realize the fact, the better it will be for them. The world has begun to look upon a criminal as a criminal, regardless of sex.

Equality of the Sexes.

Without being especially impressed by some of the personnel of the National Woman's party, and being wholly out of sympathy with some of the views and policies it has championed, we are yet able to see that there is not, under the law, an equality of the sexes in this country; that the women of the land are still legally barred from exercising some of the rights and privileges enjoyed by men, and we are inclined to agree with the recently-expressed sentiment of one of its leaders that it is about time that "male mental astigmatism" be corrected insofar as it affects the country's vision of legislation discriminating against women.

There is no question but what there is such legislation. A man is free to sell his labor, his effort, his time as he wills, but a woman is not. She can labor only so long, and then the legal bars estop her from laboring further, despite the fact that many women are both physically and temperamentally better qualified to work longer hours than some men. The man is permitted to decide for himself how much overtime he will put in, if there is a demand for overtime; a woman can work but fifty hours a week.

It is this situation which has prompted the women of the party in question to decide to send a committee to the summer White House in the Black Hills to petition the president to give his support to the proposed Lucretia Mott amendment to the federal constitution, which proposed amendment provides that "men and women shall have equal rights throughout the United States and all places in its jurisdiction."

Stopping off in Chicago, this week, a number of the leaders of the party enroute to their national convention in Colorado Springs expressed themselves very forcefully during the course of a gathering at the Illinois Women's Athletic club.

Speaking of this matter of protective legislation—for it is thus called—Mrs. Clarence M. Smith, of New York, held that special laws enacted for the benefit of the health and morals of women workers, and not functioning for men, really put these women workers at an economic disadvantage. "Also," she remarked in closing, "it's worth recording that the health and morals of women workers never bothered men until the women entered the competitive field of labor."

Another party leader, Mrs. Mary Murray, of Brooklyn, a railroad worker, denounced the women's eight-hour-day bill as the work of the American Federation of Labor and welfare workers. Both of these organizations, she charged, had selfish interests and motives, but they disguised them by "waving the flag of maternity."

There's a lot of merit in what these women leaders in the National Woman's party say in regard to so-called protective legislation and we are willing to admit it, but this does not estop us from recalling to the reader that we also said that we were not especially impressed by some of the policies of that party or some of its personnel. The determination of the women to send a delegation to the Black Hills is an illustration of their methods. They haven't the slightest hesitation about breaking in upon—at least, attempting to break in upon—the vacation of the president, and, if the past may be taken as a prophecy of the present, in case he refuses to receive them they will probably "picket" the summer White House during his stay. The trouble with the women identified with the organization in question is that they probably wouldn't be content with equal rights; that they want to follow courses which they look upon as within their rights, which a party of men wouldn't think of attempting.

A Splendid Showing.

Preliminary figures indicate that the United States Lines, operating the Leviathan, George Washington, Republic, President Harding and President Roosevelt, has earned a net profit for the fiscal year ended June 30 of from $500,000 to $600,000. Contrasted with a loss of $645,280 the preceding year, this is an apparent net gain of approximately $1,000,000 in earnings in twelve months.

The five vessels named had an operating expense for the first ten months of the fiscal year just closed of $13,137,638 and a net profit of $137,635. May and June are by all odds the big months of the year and it is figured that the actual figures for the two months will show them to have been by far the most profitable. In the shipping industry, the greatest return, all things even, is had from the greatest volume of business, and the May and June business of the United States Lines broke all previous records of the lines.

Such a showing is something of a novelty, as nothing of the kind has been made heretofore since operation of the service began. To go from heavy loss to a fair profit is decidedly noteworthy. The best of it is, the return this year may exceed that of the year past. The business of the lines is growing; its vessels are becoming more popular with each sailing. In evidence of this, the Leviathan carried on her last eastward trip the biggest passenger list ever booked out of New York at any time, despite the competition of the vessels of the wet lines.

Commenting on the statement of a friend of Mr. Donahey to the effect that the governor is more interested in cooking than in elections, the Columbus Citizen remarks that "that has been taken for granted since the library veto." We assume the Citizen means that the library vote cooked Victor's goose.

But when all is said, none of these stories of transatlantic flights has been in the same class for thrilling interest with Dr. Cook's stirring tale of his dash to the North pole and return.

It must not be assumed that the Russian soviet leaders are the only super-egotists of the times. We have some over here of the same stripe who labor under the delusion that they alone of all mankind know how to run the world and those who live thereon.

It's the same old story over again. The women folks having destroyed or given away those they had, ostrich feathers are back again. When it comes to playing the change game, the fashion people are in a class by themselves.

FAR FROM THE MADDING CROWD.

Causes of Deafness.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

At a meeting of the American Otological society a very cheering announcement was made. The Carnegie foundation has given $80,000 to find the cause of otosclerosis.

Since this is the chief cause of serious deafness acquired by adults, you can see how important it is to find out why it comes. It is worth at least $80,000 to one single individual to know how to avoid otosclerosis.

We call the outside ear and the canal leading to the drum, the external ear. Hollowed out of one bone of the skull is a cavity, the outer wall of which is the ear drum. This cavity, called the middle ear, is not large. It measures about a quarter of an inch in diameter.

Stretching across this space is a string of tiny bones. They are so very small indeed, that this short distance is completely spanned by three bones, known as the "mallet," "anvil," and "stirrup."

These names are given because of the resemblance, in miniature, to the things after which they are called. The foot-plate of the stirrup bone fits in an opening in the skull. It has a valve-like action here, not unlike the free movement of the piston in a cylinder.

The handle of the mallet bone is attached to the ear drum. You will see, then, that when the waves of air cause the ear drum to vibrate, there is a corresponding movement of the mallet bone. This carries the vibration to the anvil bone and, in turn, to the stirrup bone. This pushes forward in its socket, causing the fluid beyond it, in the internal ear, to become agitated. This carries an impulse to the endings of the nerve of hearing with float in this fluid. The stimulation is then passed on to the brain and is recognized there as a sensation of sound.

There is perfect hearing so long as the joints of the little bones continue flexible. So long as the stirrup valve is freely movable all goes well.

Unfortunately, there may be hardening of the joints and such interference with the stirrup in its opening as to fix it in place, to "freeze" it, as a mechanic would say of the automobile valves. This hardening and destruction of free play of the tiny bones, is called "otosclerosis."

Today it is one of the most obstinate and hopeless of human ailments. Deafness from this cause is most unsatisfactory in its treatment. That is why the Carnegie foundation appropriation is so welcome.

At present, the accepted view is that nasal catarrh and its extension to the ear, is the chief cause of this form of deafness. In any event, we should take great pains to avoid colds and, if we get them, to see that complete relief is had. We must take no chances on getting middle ear deafness.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

H. M. B. Q—How can flat feet be overcome?

2—What causes granulated eyelids?

3—What will benefit high blood pressure?

A—This condition can be remedied by wearing the correct kind of supports.

2—This condition is due to infection. Bathe with a mild solution of warm boracic acid several times a day and apply one per cent. yellow oxide of mercury ointment at night. However, have the eyes tested to see if glasses are needed, and if your case is really trachoma you need expert treatment.

3—Proper diet and general care. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.—Copyright, 1927.

IMAGINATION.

More strange than true I never may believe
These antique fables, nor these fairy toys.
Lovers and madmen have such seething brains,
Such shaping fantasies, that apprehend
More than cool reason ever comprehends.
The lunatic, the lover, and the poet
Are of imagination all compact:
One sees more devils than vast hell can hold—
That is, the madman; the lover, all as frantic,
Sees Helen's beauty in a brow of Egypt;
The poet's eye, in a fine frenzy rolling,
Doth glance from heaven to earth, from earth to heaven;
And as imagination bodies forth
The forms of things unknown, the poet's pen
Turns them to shapes, and gives to airy nothing
A local habitation and a name.

Editorial Comment.

AS OTHERS SEE US.

A distinguished New York minister the other day took occasion to say a good word for modern youth. It was good to read what he had to say. His thought was not disturbed by flapper knees or bobbed hair. He envisioned youth as the thing eternal. To him its gesture and manners are incidental merely to the strong urge of life. He has faith in this beautiful thing we know as youth. Every one should have faith in it. Youth is not drenched with sin, as we so often have been told by those who make the fighting of sin a profession.

This clean-minded observer of life in wholesome perspective pungently illustrated what he had to say in the following delightful story:

"Adults in every age have found fault with youth. Take the familiar tale of Bill. He came home from college. He 'blew in.' He was wearing a loud suit, had a necktie that could be heard coming, had his hair pasted down and was hatless. His father looked him over and turned away with disgust, with the remark, 'Bill, you make me tired; you look like a fool.' This didn't disturb Bill much. Later an old neighbor, who had lived near when Bill's father was a boy, came over to see Bill. They had a long talk. Finally he said: 'Bill, you're looking fine. You look just like your father did when he first came home from college.' Bill said: 'That's just what father was telling me.'"

A good many of our excellent censors wouldn't feel flattered to be told just how they appear to others. The trouble with a lot of folk is that they do not realize that the passing of years takes strange toll from them. Many of us are far less lovely in actuality than we think ourselves to be. When we begin to criticise and defame the flaming youth about us it might be well if we turned the moral microscope in our own direction. In most cases, having employed such intensive investigation, it is rather certain that we should smash the instrument in a fit of righteous indignation.

Modern youth is all right. Can as much be said for modern maturity? It is a debatable proposition.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

NOT SO SAFE AND SANE.

For some years past we have been hugging the delusion that we in this country have actually achieved the "safe and sane Fourth." For this reason a casual glance at the news columns Tuesday must have given most of us a shock. Not in many a day has the holiday butcher's bill been so high. So far as concerns the ban on fireworks the city managed pretty well, but even there the casualties went considerably ahead of the figures for last year. Careless handling of firearms was responsible for two deaths and cannon crackers and other fireworks caused about a score of minor injuries. But, after all, it was not a difficult job to keep the city quiet, and its inhabitants in comparative order, on the national holiday for the simple reason that nearly everybody seems to have gone out of town.

Never before were the city streets and the suburbs, too, so peaceful. There was little noise or confusion anywhere except in the congested quarters of the very poor; and it is only the very poor, it seems, who can not afford some sort of motor vehicle to carry them out into the country. It was in the country, in the wide open spaces, where most of the day's casualties occurred. As makers of mischief, the cannon cracker and the cheap pistol have been superseded by the holiday motorist. In the district immediately around Philadelphia, during the week-end just past, a dozen people were killed and nearly 100 were injured in automobile accidents. Every year the records grow, and what will be the end of it all? Some way will have to be found to regulate traffic.

One Fourth of July problem has completely changed. At one time the authorities had merely to keep order in the city; now it is necessary to extend the work of public safety along all the main traveled roads for miles around. We are still very far from being safe and sane.—Philadelphia Record.

PEDESTRIANS AND THE LAW.

Commissioner Babcock points out the new feature in the highway law intended to discriminate slightly in favor of the pedestrian. The latter has the "right of way" at all street intersections in the residence or downtown districts. Previous to this statement the pedestrian's right was restricted to the somewhat narrow confines of his agility to leap. On the whole, for those who escaped, the effect was not unhealthful. The exercise promoted a fine development of muscles not excelled by those gained by golf or tennis. Indeed, it has been truthfully asserted that many a collegiate record for the broad, high and standing jumps has been broken, but without official attestation. But there would be a grave failure in our duty to the public if it were not pointed out that the new law is merely a printed paragraph in a law book, which of itself is no sort of barrier against the actual onrushing of the motor vehicle. For some time the railroad train has had the right of way at grade crossings, a law that has not prevented considerable depletions by ambitious motorists. Hence it is plain that the pedestrian who desires to remain in this vale of tears and gas should not rely too strongly on his statutory privilege or stand—unless it be with muscles tensed for action—on his rights.—Albert Lee, Minnesota, Standard.

Boundary lighted landing fields, averaging forty acres in extent and about thirty miles apart, are included in government plans.

Everybody asks the question: "How's business?" Surveys show business is better so far in 1927 than the forecasts promised. Freight carriage of the railroads has been at new high levels. On the average, wages are better today than ever before. The well-being of the country, however, is not evenly distributed. Business is much better in some places than others. On the whole we are having a good year. Prosperity is in the saddle and big business men, profiting by mistakes of the past, have learned some things about keeping it there.—Copyright, 1927.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, July 9—Long Island is as curiously indifferent to its neighbors as the most congested section among the Manhattan cliff dwellers. The other day a group of us looked for one of the large country estate show places on the north shore.

Several drug stores—usually founts of information—in the nearest village could offer no aid. It was some place about. But the exact location was unknown. Finally we drew up at a house along the roadside and inquired. The owner was not sure, but thought it was over yonder about 200 yards away.

It was. No countryside in the world can offer such contrasting displays of poverty and wealth. Next to an expansive acreage with an imported English gateway and a 100-room Tudor house, there is likely to be a dump heap dotted with tin can huts of squatters.

It is difficult to realize that many Long Island villages nestle so near the heart beat of Gotham. They have the rural simplicity of those in west Texas or those stretching across the Kansas prairies. On Sunday one sees the "store clothes dudes" in front of the garages and drug stores.

In the rear of scores of blacksmith shops are horseshoe pitchers and on the steps of the leading bank will be found the open forums discussing and settling all the knotty problems supposed to worry congress. New York is as far removed as Kamchatka.

Flushing, which is a short ten-minute drive across the bridge, is a village with shaded streets and rambling frame houses with wide porches and large front yards. Village characters whittle in the public squares and gawk at strangers. It offers a touch of the sleepy old South.

Long Island villages refuse stubbornly to be absorbed by the metropolitan glitter. They are sufficient unto themselves. Even Great Neck, the Broadway theatrical colony, has barber shops where a game of checkers may be started at a moment's notice.

There is a certain castle on Long Island moved piece by piece from Europe. It was a rich man's bridal gift to his beautiful, but rather dumb, bride. She was motored there for the first view of it shortly after the ceremony and was chilled by its ancient mustiness and said so. He brought her back to a glittering apartment in New York and the imported castle remains—untenanted.

In a half hour's drive from Times square one may find himself in some tiny village like a Callot engraving, with hens pecking at farm dogs nipping before the doors. There are scarred inns with creaking signboards swinging in the wind and little farms with dovecotes, barns and sheepfold enclosed behind white paneled fencing.—Copyright, 1927.

JOHN HAYS HAMMOND.

John Hays Hammond is one of the most famous mining engineers in the world. He was born at San Francisco, March 31, 1855. He began his career in 1880 as a special expert of the United States geologic survey, examining the California gold fields. Since this time he has examined properties in all parts of the world and has been consulting engineer for the Barnato brothers and later for Cecil Rhodes. Hammond was one of the four leaders in the reform movement in the Transvaal, South Africa, in 1895 and 1896. Following the Jameson raid, with which he was not in sympathy, he was arrested and sentenced to death. Later his sentence was commuted, and still later he was released on payment of a fine. He has been a university lecturer and a member of government commissions. He is now chairman of the department of political education of the National Civic federation.

Mr. Hammond wants all men and women to become politicians and tells why. He says:

"Last November, when the people were called upon to elect thirty-four governors, thirty-two United States senators, and nearly all the state legislatures, and thousands of municipal and other local officials, 40,000,000 eligible voters did not go to the polls. This stay-at-home vote represents two-thirds of the qualified citizens of the country.

"Those who decry anything savoring of politics" because it is so corrupt and dishonest are invited to join us in our endeavor to rub the dirt off that word. 'Politician' is thus defined by Webster:

"'1. One versed in the science of government; statesman. 2. One who seeks advancement in public office, or success of a party; an intriguer.'

"Let all men and women become politicians under the first definition or, sooner or later, those under the second will utterly destroy the integrity of our government.

"Apathy on the part of those who show no difference to voting and other duties of citizenship may wreck our democratic institutions.

"If this apathy is not dispelled it will be only a question of time before our government will fall into the hands of especially interested small minorities and our democratic institutions made to suffer, if not disappear."

Dinner Stories.

In London this story is going the rounds. A man called on Rudyard Kipling and said to his maid:

"If Mr. Kipling is at work, please do not disturb him."

"Work!" exclaimed the maid. "He don't do no work; he only sits upstairs and scribbles and scribbles."

* * *

"Say, mister, do you know what that horse you sold me did?"

"No, what did he do?"

"Why, he up and died on me."

"Died! Why, he never did that for me."

* * *

Politician—"How'd you like to be elected president by a unanimous vote of the people?"

Senator?"

"Impossible!"

"Not at all. I'm going to get up a third party and call it the Morons' league."

* * *

A widower was to be married for the third time. His bride had been married once before.

The groom-elect wrote across the bottom of the wedding invitation sent to a friend:

"Be sure to come; this is no amateur performance."

Two men were dining together. The one who carved gave himself the best part of the bird. The other protested.

"What would you have done, then, if you were the carver."

"Given you the best part of the bird."

"Well, I've got it, haven't I?"

NO NEW DEVELOPMENTS IN BANK ROBBERY CASE

Police Consider Round-Up of Entire Bandit Band Not Improbable

Galion, July 9—There have been no further developments in the much discussed Commercial Bank robbery case since Wilbur Hand, alleged participant in the hold-up, gave himself to police officers.

In the opinion of police and detectives of the Ohio Bankers' Association, who are leading search activities a round-up of the entire group of bandits is not improbable.

Fearing an attempt at jailbreaking, guards at the county prison are being particularly cautious. Hand and Harry Zillick, the first of the robbers captured are at present occupying cells at opposite ends of the prison corridor and are denied speaking privileges. Machine guns have been placed in outer rooms and from all appearances Crawford County officials are determined to prevent escapes. Both prisoners are held under $50,000 bond and as yet bond has not been furnished by either.

Prevailing reports of additional arrests were discredited by Galion police last night.

Notice to Farmers

Combine Harvester-threshers have been used in the West for several years for threshing all small grains, and within the past few seasons have been successfully introduced into Illinois and other Eastern states. It harvests and threshes at one operation, handles from 25 to 40 acres a day and requires but very little help to operate it.

We are shipping one of these machines in and would like to test it out in the vicinity of Marion on a few jobs of wheat and oats. This is an opportunity for crops one to get threshing and harvesting done cheaply as we will make no charge for the work, our only interest being in observing the mechanical performance of the machine.

The only requirement is that your grain must be allowed to stand after ripening until the moisture content is reduced to a point where it can be properly handled with the machine.

TO ASK COMMISSIONERS FOR COUNTY FAIR AID

Hardin Agriciuttural Society Hopes To Sponsor Fall Exposition

Kenton, July 9—In recognition of recent state rulings whereby state aid might be applied in the matter of operation of county fairs, the Hardin County Agricultural Society plans to apply to the Board of Hardin County Commissioners for financial aid in carrying on an agricultural exposition here in the fall.

Decision to appeal to the commissioners was reached at a meeting of the members of the society, according to Lawrence Seiler, president. In addition, committees were named and instructed to investigate and determine the possibilities for holding a fair here this year.

Following the presentation of the request to the board and the completion of investigation by the committees, the Agricultural Society will meet Monday evening to definitely decide upon the question of a 1927 fair.

Continued rains and inclement weather last fall combined to lessen the success of the exposition and as a result the society was enabled to pay only a certain percentage of its premiums and awards. Displays in every department set new marks and the attractions were above the average, however the rain kept the attendance and receipts down.

According to the financial report of the society all obligations from the 1926 fair have now been met through individual subscriptions and other aid.

Although Prospect is at present in the cellar position in the tri-county race, their line-up has been greatly strengthened for the game here Sunday and real opposition is anticipated. Manager Bert McFarland of the Reds will pitch Norby Hathcock, and has secured the services of Lela, former Lima and Springfield star, at short stop. Lingeel, second sacker, who was injured in the game here against the Toledo Cops when he was struck in the head by a pitched ball, will be back in uniform.

Opposing Hathcock will be Garron. Prospect's best bet on the mound.

HEALTH CONDITIONS HERE VERY FAVORABLE, CLAIM

No Cases of Contagious Diseases in County, Commissioner's Records Show

Unusually favorable health conditions prevail throughout Marion county at this time, according to records at the office of Dr. N. Sifritt, county health commissioner, which show that there are no cases of contagious disease under his supervision now.

This condition is a decided contrast to the situation which existed a year ago, when there were several cases of smallpox in the western and northern parts of the county in the vicinity of Meeker and Morral.

Contagion is ordinarily less prevalent at this time than during other seasons of the year but it is seldom that the county is entirely free from cases of that class, health officials say.

Dr. Sifritt's territory as health officer includes all of the county outside of the city of Marion.

Things

Caverns
Seers
Thoughtlessness

BY EDNA B. DUTTON

WHO can tell just what kind of a bug it is that attacks us particularly around a holiday or vacation time that causes us to cast physical and financial caution to the four winds and plunge madly into outlandish doings which on any safe and sane Sunday of any time after working hours would be scoffed at as a delusion and a snare to part us from our hard-earned simoleons to say nothing of inviting physical discomfort? I parted with the price of a good steak and French fries the last holiday to descend into the "innerds" of the earth and prowl about for the best part of an hour, oh-ing and ah-ing in chorus with some 20 or 40 other victims at the stalactites and stalagmites, wedging my way between dank, drippy walls, dodging drops of the wettest kind of water from the rocky ceiling and hopping gingerly over age-old puddles of water. Only 1,200 persons had gone through this cave before us on the particular day so of course our guide knew his story well, in fact I am inclined to believe he was wont to weave some of it as we wended our way through the chasms. He would have us believe that earthly patterns had been followed in the formations during these last two or three thousand years and really seemed hurt if we failed to instantly to recognize the three graces, the three wise men, liberty lighting the world, Kaiser Bill's face and dozens of other familiar objects. I feel I should be given a rebate on my bill however for I supplied the foolish question when he pointed to the hen with 12 chickens, and of course the chickens were under the hen. The real thrill came when the lights went out and we were in total darkness except for the flashlights held by the guide and the trailer. It was so comforting to be told that this was the first time the lights had ever gone out and then remember that one was about 100 feet below the green sward. Oh, yes, and there was in our midst the guy who fairly reveled in reminding us of Floud Collins' fate. I felt relieved when the lights came on again and it wasn't long until the air began to grow warmer and we saw the light of day. The real kick came with the climbing of the 61 steps which brought us back under the blue dome of heaven. It is all very interesting and really worth seeing even if one doesn't go in for antiques.

I have been told that the fortune telling business is better in summer than in winter, and that we of the alleged weaker sex are more inclined to sit at the feet of those who claim to see around the corner into the next day, month, year, or years, that the boys. But why shouldn't we? What's the use of squandering the summer's earnings on some new togs and taking a boat cruise expecting to corral one or more of the unattached prince charmings when it's open season for them at mountain resorts or planning to take a visit in order to elude the annual onslaught of the undesirable relations during the month of August when this year they have decided to come in July. Just think of the peace of mind to say nothing of the comfy feeling of being all set for all time to come, all for the price of a dozen ice cream sundaes and a trip to a soda or soiree.

THE setting for this yarn is a store of popular prices in a neighboring county and the tale was told to me for the truth. An absent-minded young lady fared forth to shop on a warm showery day with nothing particularly on her mind. Seeing the doors of this store open she marched in and leisurely inspected the wares on the various counters, taking time out to glare meaningly at two flappers who could not restrain their mirth, and marched on out with the umbrella still held over. "Thank heavens you weren't driving an automobile," was the comforting comment of her relatives when told of the episode.

Trinity Baptist Church Women Hold Meeting

Members of the Woman's Society, Trinity Baptist Church, held a joint program meeting Thursday afternoon at the church parlors, with Mrs. J. J. Sparling and Mrs. Frank Techanon as leaders. In the absence of the president, Mrs. B. R. Sager, Mrs. U. S. Davis presided. The program hour opened with a song, "Faith of Our Fathers," and Mrs. J. J. Sparling gave the scripture reading. A prayer by Mrs. U. S. Davis was followed by a program on the topic, "War and Its Effects," in charge of Mrs. Sparling.

Mrs. E. E. Patten gave a paper, "Our Denomination and Its Growth," and Mrs. H. Groves gave a paper on "How the War Affected the Foreign Missions of the American Baptist." A dialogue, "Christianity Not a Failure," was given by Mrs. William Drake and Mrs. J. B. Taylor.

The program for which Mrs. Frank Techanon presided opened with an article on "Baptist Answers the Needs of Europe," and Mrs. C. S. Linnincott offered the prayer. A short talk by Dr. U. S. Davis concluded the program. During the social hour refreshments were served with members of Group G. of which Mrs. S. W. Rinehart is chairman, as hostesses. The members will have a summer Christmas tree at their next meeting Aug. 4.

Larry goes and Mansour tells him he is about to die and that he wants him to go to Morocco, where he, Mansour, is a sheriff or native ruler. He is to find the Temple, endure the Ordeal, crush the Group and put Mansour's son on the throne. A Moor appears and gives Mansour a token, a ruby ring which Larry later wears. The Moor also throws into the room a tiny ivory tiger—the striped Death. Mansour dies and his body disappears—carried off by the Moors. Larry goes to Morocco, finds

OMAR BEN MEIDAD, who dresses him as a wizard, and at Youssef el-Habassi he starts on his travels. He soon meets

ALLAL ABDI, Mansour's son, who travels with him. The two have many adventures, and Larry discovers that the supposed son is in reality a daughter. The two grow to love one another, but Benna is spirited away from Larry. Later he finds her in prison after he has killed the trained tiger—the Striped Death—and endured the ordeal of the dancers. He is made to submit to the trial by Fire, in which he saves himself by throwing dynamite cubes into the flames, scattering them. He kills the Group leader, the Marabout of Adrar, and does his

Love's Embers

A Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

First Hand Account

AT Lillian's murmured assertion that there was trouble ahead for me with Philip Veritzen without going out of my way to meet it, I whirled abruptly, facing her.

"What do you mean?" I asked, forgetting to lower my voice. She put up a quickly warning hand, with a lifting of her eyebrows toward the maid at the other end of the room.

"I'll tell you after we get back to my dear little home nest," she said with a wry grimace at the mocking reference to the small shabby suite of hotel rooms in which she was marking time until her daughter came home from school. "But run some whalebone through your upper lip until then."

She brushed a powder puff lightly over her cheek, gave her reflection in the mirror a final critical glance and tucked her hand inside my elbow for the walk back to the balcony.

"All right. Please consider me check-proof from this second," I said with a lightness I was far from feeling, and then we were back upon the balcony where a waiter and an omnibus were carefully preparing a table close to the balcony railing for our dinner.

I had not eaten since early morning, before my train journey from the east end of Long Island, and despite the bountiful breakfast Katie had served at that time, the long motor ride following the railroad journey had made me listen with pleasant anticipation to Lillian's encomiums upon the dinners of Philip Veritzen's planning. But her cryptic warnings concerning my employer effectually robbed me of appetite during the first courses of the most marvelous dinner I ever had seen served.

Gradually, however, I fought myself back to common sense and by the time the fish course, delicately browned mountain trout, appeared, I was able to do justice to what Mr. Veritzen patently considered one of the triumphs of his feast.

"How do you manage it, Phil?" Lillian asked.

"It isn't so complex as it seems. I have a standing reservation for a table here on certain days during the entire season. They always make sure that my favorite dishes are on hand. If I do have to cancel the reservation, there is always someone very glad to pick it up."

"I should imagine so," Lillian commented, and then Mr. Veritzen turned to me with a fascinating little air of deference.

"I have not dared to ask you before," he said, "for you were not eating and I feared you were indisposed, but now that you appear to have recovered my appetite, may we not have the story of your queer new Tennessee neighbors?"

What humanness his eyes possessed! I had dattered myself that I had managed to conceal my neglect of the first courses of the dinner. But he evidently had been watching me more closely than I had dreamed. To cover my confusion I plunged at once into a description of the Lincolns, who had leased The Larches for the season.

It did not take me long to realize that Philip Veritzen had a curiously intense interest in my story wholly unwarranted by the simple tale of oddities of my new neighbors. Lillian was frankly intrigued by the tale, but her face held no such tensity as did that of my employer who frequently interrupted me to ask for a repetition of some detail of description which I had given.

Oddly enough, it was not the description of Eleanor Lincoln, the young chatelaine of The Larches, which had appeared to interest him most, although he had listened most attentively to my account of her, and had asked me to repeat two or three details of her appearance. I knew that he had a very definite picture of the young girl in his mind by the time I had finished. But he paid most meticulous attention to my account of the visit to the farm of the arrogant ill-mannered uncle of Eleanor Lincoln, and then when I said that the girl's aunt was ill and could not be seen, he surprisingly said, as if to himself:

"It all fits in."

If You Like The Out-of-Doors You'll Love Bay View!

BAY VIEW is a beautiful, high and dry, partially wooded peninsula, jutting out about a half-mile into the quiet waters of Sandusky Bay. It is located on State Route 12, just 6 miles west of Sandusky, and may be approached by reasonably paved roads from east, west or south.

The waters abound with fish and water fowl. Swimming and boating do not involve the danger found in the open lake. Tennis, pienicing and playgrounds for the kiddies make it pleasant for those who prefer the land.

Bay View No. 1 is in its third year. Most of the lots are sold. Many beautiful cottages—owned by people you would welcome as neighbors—have been built and more are going up. Bay View is quiet and conservative. All lots 50 ft. wide and very reasonable.

The new highway bridge across Sandusky Bay (starting at the point of Bay View Peninsula) has opened remarkable investment opportunities.

If you are looking for a summer home, come to Bay View. And come SOON for it's almost gone.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS ON INCREASE HERE

Transactions Jump Five Over Last Week; Decrease in Mortgages

The usual summer lull in real estate activities is continuing in Marion county, evidence being apparent in transactions at the county recorder's office, where 37 deeds were recorded and 31 mortgages filed during the last week.

This was an increase of five deeds over the total of the preceding week, while there was a decrease of five in mortgage transactions.

Deals in city property greatly outnumbered transactions involving farm land and village real estate and the same situation prevailed in connection with mortgage loans. This same ratio has existed for several weeks, comparatively few transfers of rural properties having taken place and the percentage of farm loans being proportionately small.

The largest single loan made last week, however, was on a farm of 287 acres in Bowling Green Township, for which a mortgage of $11,000 was issued to the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co.

Mortgages issued during the week totaled $56,715, which was $10,375.15 less than the preceding week.

The 31 mortgages filed in the seven-day period included 27 totaling $57,715 on property in the city of Marion and four amounting to $10,500 on farm and village properties.

Local building and loan associations made 23 of the loans in the city, the total being $55,280. All of the other mortgages, with the exception of the one for $11,000 on the Bowling Green Township farm, were issued to banks and individuals.

A list of the 37 deeds recorded last week follows:

REPORTED IMPROVED

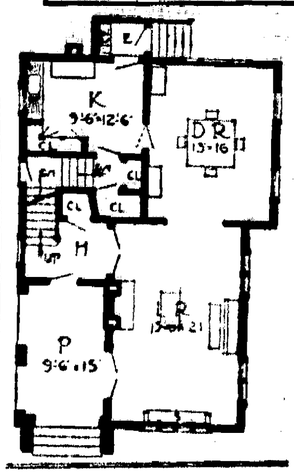
The condition of Betty Jane, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Landon, Jr., S. Main-st, who is critically ill of peritonitis at City Hospital, is reported slightly improved today. The little girl underwent an operation for appendicitis Tuesday.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Charles C. Davis, DeGraff, has been removed from his home to City Hospital, where he is undergoing treatments.

In the long ago, if a miller had thought of it, he might have made his flour sacks with sleeves and boomed his business.

ATTRACTIVE COTTAGE TYPE OF HOME



One of Many Designs Recommended by Marion Building Men

Neat and attractive cottage types of homes with stucco, plain siding or brick veneer exteriors are being urged by Marion builders to persons who desire a nice appearing and comfortable as well as economical residence. One of the designs approved by local builders appears above.

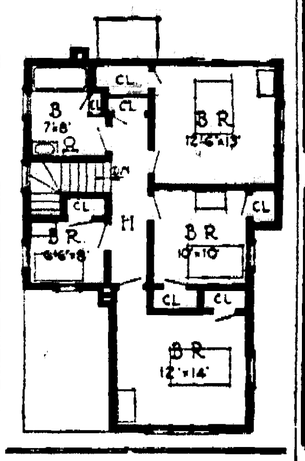
The home pictured above has a long sloping roof, overhanging eaves, charming little dormer and gable in roof, and massive porch columns. This home, from an artistic standpoint, is one to be proud of. The floor plan is of equal merit. Note the ideal arrangement of rooms, the entry to kitchen with provision for refrigerator, the chimney located in center of house giving flue connections to all rooms. The cellar grade entrance door affords also a service entrance to the first floor.

Three very cheerful bedrooms are provided on the second floor with four spacious clothes closets and a storage room in the attic. In all it is a dignified practical and charming home. It includes an extra room, small but serviceable as a den or child's room.

The entrance is over a good-sized porch to the right of which is located the living room. The dining room will be found sufficiently large for more than the average size family. In the arrangement of the service section of the house nothing has been omitted.

Those important factors in planning —namely, compactness of arrangement and free entrance to all rooms from a public hall have been observed. Closets are ample and the bathroom properly designed.

The stucco walls with a half timber effect in the gables are in keeping with the style. The stucco surfaces are applied to a frame of wood. If a painted wood exterior as one of siding is desired the substitution may be made without changing the drawing.



BUILDING HERE ABOVE THAT OF 1926, REPORT

Construction First Six Months Almost Equal to All of Last Year

In spite of the failure of building activities to come up to the expectations of builders and real estate men this spring, the building permits issued during the first six months of this year were only 52 less than the entire number issued last year, while the estimated valuation of the property built was but $43,320 less than that built during the entire year of 1926.

During the first six months of this year, according to figures submitted today by City Clerk Keller, permits were issued for 61 dwellings with an estimated valuation of $198,650, while during 1926 there were but 47 permits for dwellings with an estimated valuation of $149,750.

Comparison of Totals

The total estimated valuation of property built during the first six months of this year was $292,565, while the estimated valuation of property built during 1926 amounted to $335,885. Of this, $63,310 represented the cost of 213 garages and $33,380 the estimated amount of money spent in the remodeling of dwellings.

There were 126 permits for garages issued the first six months of this year with an estimated valuation of the property at $16,135 while the permits for the remodeling of dwellings were 96 in number and represented an expenditure of $30,165.

But seven permits were issued by City Clerk Keller during the past week. Of this number three were for garages, two for porches, one for remodeling and one for a storage building. The permit for a storage warehouse to cost $800, taken out by Ralph Horton, of the Horton Battery Service station, was the largest issued during the week.

YOUR RENT MONEY WILL PAY FOR A HOME

Schell's plan makes home ownership easy. Dozens have tried it—surely you can match their success! Marion real estate is a really sound investment. And to think that your rent money will actually pay for a home for you and yours. Why it seems foolish to pay for a home to rent with no chance of owning it!

United Brethren Church Organized Here in 1837

First Edifice of Congregation Erected in 1850; Part of Present Structure

BY REV. W. H. HOWARD

The church of the United Brethren in Christ took its origin toward the close of the eighteenth century in eastern Pennsylvania, Maryland and Virginia. This was in an evangelical movement, conducted by ministers and people of different denominations. The church, in no sense, is an offshoot from any existing denomination. It was formed by the people of different denominations or churches, rather, who found a common ground in the advanced views of spiritual experience which they adopted.

The most conspicuous figure in the formation and early progress of the church was Philip William Otterbein, a learned German divine. He came to America in the year 1752, being at that time twenty-six years of age. He instituted prayer and class meetings for the purpose of fostering a more earnest spiritual life.

How Church Was Named

While residing at York, and subsequently in Baltimore, he made frequent visits to other points, where he insisted on the practice of the doctrine of the new birth. On one of these visits in a country neighborhood in Lancaster County Penn., in the summer of about 1768 he met the Rev. Martin Boehm. Reverend Boehm, a minister of the Mennonite church, was preaching in a barn, owned by Isaac Long. Without acquaintance with Mr. Otterbein in the service, Rev. Boehm preached with power, and when he ceased speaking the tall courtly German Missionary Otterbein arose and cast his arms around the slight form of the simple hearted and plainly attired Mennonite, exclaimed with deep feeling, "We are Brethren". This suggested the name of the new denomination when it was finally organized.

First Conference

The first formal conference of ministers was held in Mr. Otterbein's parsonage in Baltimore, in the year 1789. In general policy the United Brethren in Christ is strictly orthodox. Its ecclesiastical meetings are the general, annual, and quarterly conferences. Pastors are appointed annually to their charges, but since 1893 may be reappointed to the same charges an indefinite number of years.

In educational work the church is fairly provided for, having 13 institutions of various grades, including the Bonebrake Theological Seminary, at Dayton.

The primary thought of the founders of the United Brethren Church was that of promoting a more spiritual type of religious experience and life than was generally present and prevalent at that time in the churches from which they came. This church is broadly christian in spirit. It affiliates readily with other denominations in all work, and would be found ready to join other churches in any general movement looking toward a union of all christians. This is a condensed history of the church in general and the following is of local interest.

The local United Brethren Church was organized in 1837. This was at the home of John Gruber, east of the city. After worshipping in the homes of John Gruber and John Kauble until 1848, the congregation worshipped in a small brick church on N. East-st, now N. State-st.

Dedicated in 1851

The first church building was erected in 1850 and dedicated in 1851. This now forms a part of the present structure which was erected in 1902.

This was rededicated April 29 1903 by Bishop W. M. Weekly, D. D. The charter members of the church were Mr. and Mrs. John Gruber, Mr. and Mrs. John Kauble, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Ulsh, Rev. George Miller and family, Rev. Jacob Burger and family.

The church has enjoyed a liberal growth under the following pastors: Revs. Falck, A. Spracklin, Jacob Burger, F. Lindsay, C. Briggs, E. Bell, S. W. Day, J. Hawn, A. Berry, W. Martin, S. Coulter, T. D. Ingle, F. Clymer, C. L. Barlow, Isaac Crouse, D. R. Miller, A. Orr, J. Crum, J. M. Mills, J. A. Weiler, J. Smith, A. E. Davis, W. S. Reese, P. Hinton, Peter Wagner, S. Barcus, J. L. Hensley, E. Bernard, M. F. Scouten, J. A. Riggs, W. F. Durr, A. Snider L. C. Reed, J. W. Miles, D. C. Hollinger O. F. Laughbaum, O. E. Knepp and W. H. Howard.

Owns Half Acre

The local church is in possession of a half acre of ground on which is located a community house well equipped for all social occasions as well as a commodious place for the Ladies' Aid to feed the hundreds who come weekly to patronize these ladies whose culinary art is seldom, if ever, surpassed.

A parsonage has been erected at a cost of $12,500. The interior of the church has just undergone a new coat of fresco and is inviting. Ten thousand dollars is in the fund for a new church and at this time a drive for ten thousand more to be provided by Easter time has been launched.

Under the pastorate of the present leader the church is undergoing a growth, spiritual and numerical.

Christian Leadership

A SERMONETTE

BY REV. L. J. HOUGHTALING
Pastor St. Paul's English Lutheran Church

IN these days of godless competition and eternal striving for the things which the world places at a premium leadership has become the norm of success. We are in danger of losing the ideal of service. If a man be a leader in any line of activity, if he has attained a measure of wealth or social position we pronounce him a success. One may be a great leader and yet have no conception of service. But one who has learned to serve is always a great leader.

We hear much about "service" in these days; but it has little meaning. We have dragged that word down into the mire of our selfish thinking. We serve that we might be glorified thereby. "Service" has come to be an aesthetically gratifying term which is perfectly harmless and which nobody is expected to take seriously. It is not easy to accept it as our life's motto. It is the way of sacrifice, which we are not willing to go. It is easy to be a leader—all one needs is ability. To serve means humiliation, self-effacement. That is why we have so many worshippers at the shrine of leadership while the sacred temple of service is deserted.

We need to reconstruct our thinking. We must sit at the feet of Him Who said: "Whoever desires to be first among you must become your slave." An ambitious desire for leadership has played too large a part in our thinking. To use our imagination, we have constructed a great, white throne and upon this throne have crowned as king of our life this passion for leadership and power. Away down at the foot of this throne, crouching in its shadows, is a tiny, shrinking figure which we must shamefacedly admit is our faintly flickering desire to "lose" ourselves in service for others. "Whosoever will save his life shall lose it; but whosoever shall lose his life for My sake and the gospel's, shall save it."

We have said that to serve means to suffer. Jesus suffered because He served; and the same will be true of every man and woman who denies himself, takes up his cross and follows Him along the lowly pathway of humble service.

"O, Master, let me walk with Thee
In lowly paths of service free;
Tell me Thy secrets, help me bear
The strain of toil, the fret of care."

WESLEY M. E. CHOIR WILL PRESENT CANTATA SUNDAY

In connection with the cantata a number of children will present a tableau portraying the different phases of the helpful work of the church and Miss Ila Smallwood will contribute a violin solo.

LUTHERAN CHURCH PASTOR TO TAKE CHARGE SUNDAY

Installation of Rev. L. J. Houghtaling as pastor of St. Paul's English Lutheran Church will be held at the church Sunday night.

The service of installation will be conducted by Dr. Paul W. Koller, president of the Ohio Synod of the United Lutheran Church in America. Dr. Koller is from Mansfield.

An invitation has been extended to members of the church to attend the ceremony.

OAKLAND CHURCH HAS THREE YOUNG PREACHERS

Licensed by State Evangelical Conference; Conducting Services in This Vicinity

Oakland Evangelical Church has three youthful preachers who have been licensed by the State Evangelical Conference. They are now preaching in evangelical churches in this vicinity.

The youths, Ernest Braden, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harley N. Braden, 730 Uncapher-av; Dean Vermillion, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Vermillion, 1005 Davids-st, and Clyde Wendell, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Wendell, are now attending school in preparation for entering the ministry.

Braden and Vermillion are students at North Central College at Naperville, Ill., while Wendell is a senior at Harding High School. Braden is a senior and Vermillion a sophomore.

Feeling the call of the ministry after his conversion recently, Wendell, who dropped out of school at an early age, entered the local high school here this year to get a preparatory course for his college training, at the age of 23 years. Wendell now has a regular pastorate at DeGraff Evangelical Church where he delivers a sermon every two weeks.

Braden graduated from Harding High School in the class of 1923 and entered North Central College after he obtained his license a year later. He preaches in the local evangelical churches occasionally. He relieved Rev. I. Kauffman in the pulpit of the Greenwood Evangelical Church, last Sunday morning.

Vermillion was a member of the graduating class of 1925 at Harding High School and was a freshman at North Central College last year. He has preached at the Oakland Church several times.

Some humorous start on precipitately that very soon the only asset left is a large bunch of beautifully engraved letterheads.

DEDICATION OF NEW CHURCH IS BEING PLANNED

Work on First Reformed Edifice Expected To Be Finished by September

With the work of the new First Reformed Church still ahead of schedule, dedication of the new building is almost assured for early in September, according to the plans set before the work was started.

A week's services with several outside pastors occupying the pulpit, is expected to be held in connection with the dedication of the new edifice which will cost approximately $75,000. Dedication of the structure will be in charge of Rev. H. F. Wockenfuss, pastor of the church.

Brick work on the structure has been completed and the stone work is ready according to an announcement of the contractors in charge of the building, today. Work on the interior of the church has been started. Scaffolds have been erected and both is now being placed on beams in preparation for the plastering which will be started sometime next week. Painting of the interior will begin as soon as the plastering is completed.

To Seat 600

Pews with a seating capacity of 600 persons will arrive in Marion in the near future from the Manitowoc Furniture Co., of Waukesha, Wis., and will be placed in position as the church when the work is completed. The church will have a seating capacity of about 600 with the addition of chairs in the rooms alongside the main auditorium.

With impressive ceremony, ground for the new church was broken Aug. 8, 1926. Farewell services in the old church were held March 13, 1927. Meanwhile the services are being held in the Sunday School rooms of the newly erected building.

J. Lewis Hile is architect in charge of the plans of the new building. Other contracts were awarded to John Baldorf & Sons, contractors, Foster Brothers, plumbing and heating, and the United Electric Co., wiring.

SPORT SAUCE

BY EDDIE SCHOENLEB

A MEDAL goes to the fan or fans who can accurately tell us just what team will be sitting on top of the Commercial League when the season is over.

The league is noted for its mix-ups and last night the Steam Shovels forged ahead when the Kappas downed the Eagles. But the Shovels must play the Eagles, Kappas, and three other teams before the season is over and it must be remembered that the K. of P.'s who were defeated last night by the Stars, won over the Shovels the preceding week.

The Commercial League still holds a remarkable record of having no postponed games and no protested contests so far this season.

TRINITY BAPTISTS, tied for first place in the Second Sunday School league with the Emanuel Lutherans, have a tough assignment next week. They must meet Epworth No. 2, that high-stepping outfit that has won five straight games, defeating the Lutherans among others. Lutherans will, or should, not have much trouble with First Reforms Tuesday.

THE tail-enders will meet the loop leaders in the first Sunday School league games Tuesday night. Forest Lawn will play Calvary No. 1. Forest Lawn, however, after losing seven straights, has won its last two games and—well, you never can tell what will happen.

A GAME and a half is scheduled for the Industrial League Thursday night when Osgood meets Erie Shops. The regular scheduled game will be played and then the last inning of a protested affair from the first round will take place.

The game was protested by Osgood when the wrong ruling was made on a play in which a batted ball hit the umpire. The protest was upheld and the game will continue from that point with each team having the same line-up.

Toomire, Osgood pitcher now, will not be eligible to play in the postponed inning, having not participated in the previous game.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS

At San Francisco—Young Harry Wills, Los Angeles, negro welterweight, knocked out Freddie Mack of Seattle, in the fifth round of a scheduled 10-round bout. Billy Burke outpointed Harry Wallace in six rounds.

At Elizabeth, N. J.—Ernie Schaaf, Elizabeth heavyweight, knocked out Tom Loftus in the third round of their scheduled 10 round bout.

At Springfield, Mass.—Dick Finnegan of Boston, won the decision over Steve Smith, of Bridgeport, Conn., 10 rounds.

At Philadelphia—Tommy Murray, of Philadelphia, won the decision over Young Freddy Welsh, of Atlantic City, N. J., 8 rounds.

At Long Beach, N. Y.—Harold Mays, Brooklyn heavyweight, won the decision over Tommy Sayers, of Detroit, 6 rounds. Tommy Jovene, of Texas, knocked out Harry Shore, a local middleweight, in the fourth round.

At Long Branch, N. J.—Vince Dundee, of Baltimore, brother of Joe Dundee, welterweight champion, defeated Joe Rose, of Trenton, N. J., in 6 rounds. Andy West, Long Branch welterweight, outpointed Jack Blanchard, of New York.

Kappas Defeat Eagles; Shovels Take League Lead

Kiwanis Beat Postoffice In Eight-Inning Affair; Stars Defeat K. of P. Nine

Steam Shovel Office Triumphs Over Isaly Dairies, 4 to 1, To Take League Lead in Commercial Loop; Eagles in Second Place

MARION Steam Shovel Office is again leading the Commercial League, as a result of another general mix-up of scores and a couple of upsets in last night's games.

While the Shovel was defeating Isaly Dairies, 4 to 1, the Kappa Alpha Phis were trimming the Eagles, 5 to 4. And in the meantime the Marion Stars were nosing out the K. of P.'s, 4 to 3, and the Kiwanis were trouncing the Postoffice, 10 to 5, in eight innings.

Now, since it's all over, the Shovels are leading the league with seven victories and two defeats and the Eagles have dropped to second place with six wins and three downfalls. And then comes the usual tie. The Kappas, Stars, and Kiwanis are in a three-way deadlock for third position, having won five out of nine contests.

Kappas Defeat Eagles

The Kappas pulled the upset in the league last night. They defeated the Eagles, 5 to 4. Rank pitched for the winners and Roy Rice was on the slab for the Eagles. The Eagles threatened to tie the score in the seventh frame but fell one short of the mark. By winning the contest last night, the Kappas stayed in the race and incidentally brought the Eagles down a peg.

The Kiwanis-Postoffice tilt went eight innings but the Kiwanis went on a hit and run spree in the first of the eighth and ruined a perfectly good ball game. They scored five runs in that frame and won, 10 to 5. Hane pitched for the winners and Jim Lingo was on the mound for the Postoffice.

Stars Win

The Stars stayed in their usual tie scoring three runs in the fifth inning. Pythians had only one good inning. Kerr, pitching for the Stars, allowed only four hits, while his teammates were collecting eight off Smallwood. Hiett and Kerr led the stars in hitting, the former receiving three singles out of four times to bat and the latter getting two. Gilson slammed out a home run with one on in the fifth. Willoughby got two of the four K. of P. hits.

Clark was in his usual form last night and the Dairies were helpless against the Steam Shovel Office. Zuspan hurled a good game for the Dairies but had one bad inning. The Shovels scored three of their four runs in the fourth frame.

WHAT'S THIS? WE WIN BUT WE LOSE

The Kappas, Kiwanis and Marion Stars still are wondering just what this Commercial League standing is all about.

Prior to last night's games, the three teams were tied for second place. They all won again. Now they're in a deadlock for third position.

The mix-up occurred when the Eagles, who were tied for first with the Shovels and were two games ahead of any other teams, met defeat last night and dropped out of a first-place tie into second position. In making the drop, they ousted the other teams, still ranking one game ahead of the deadlocked outfits.

JOHNSON HAS COLORFUL CAREER

DURING BLACK SOX DROBE
PRESIDENT of AMERICAN LEAGUE FROM INCEPTION ON

THE resignation of Byron Bancroft Johnson as head of the American League, brings to a close the baseball career of one of the most outstanding personalities of the so-called National Pastime.

Johnson has been president of the American League since 1901, and since his inauguration into office until the day Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis came into power as supreme baseball commissioner his authority in the American League was absolute.

But with the coming of Landis, Johnson's authority dwindled and frequent clashes between the two officials followed. Johnson had taken umbrage at times over the methods of Landis in dealing with crookedness in baseball and on the other hand Landis had resented the leadership Johnson assumed in running down crooked practice in baseball with the result that they were continually at loggerheads.

During his long career Johnson made it a policy to stand back of his umpires. That policy resulted in a marked change in the status of umpires who years ago were reviled by the players considerably more than they are today.

Comiskey Tragedy

One of the tragedies of Johnson's career was his break with Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox and also one of the pillars of baseball. Johnson and Comiskey were accredited with having built the structure of the American League and were fast friends for many years. Comiskey, however, has been a staunch backer of Landis in all his rows with Johnson, Comiskey's split with Johnson dating prior to 1919 when the White Sox threw a world series to Cincinnati and brought about the selection of Landis as the man delegated with the authority to keep baseball clean.

Johnson has had a colorful career since his college days. He played ball in college and started out in life as a reporter. He was the first president of the American League, taking that office 26 years ago. Failing health during the winter resulted in Johnson taking a temporary leave of absence from his duties as league head. It was the first time in the 26 years that he had been absent from his duties.

Johnson's successor will not be named until he leaves office Nov. 1.

BUTLERS SHUT-OUT CRESTLINE OUTFIT

Toomire's Home Run in Fifth Ruins Hopes of Visitors

Butler's Store recreational ball team turned in another victory last night, defeating the Crestline Pennsy Railroaders, 7 to 0, on the Central Junior High diamond. Toomire ruined Crestline's hopes in the fifth frame when he socked out a home run with two on the sacks. The Butler crew made its seven runs in the fifth inning.

Toomire, pitching for Butlers, allowed only three hits and collected as many himself off Hipshire the Crestline hurler.

SUZANNE DECLINES TO PLAY IN DOUBLES

London, July 9—Susanne Lenglen, French tennis star, has declined the suggestion of a promoter to play an exhibition doubles match with three men. The promoter wanted Susanne to pair with a man and play the other two men.

"I wouldn't play in such a match," said Susanne, somewhat indignantly. "It's unorthodox—stupid."

Marion Outfit Will Again Meet Elyria Richwines; Main and Reese to Pitch

Athletics Out for Revenge Following Defeat at Hands of Visitors Here Few Weeks Ago; Strickradt on Mound for Elyria

ANOTHER extraordinary bill of baseball entertainment is offered Marion fans Sunday afternoon when the Elyria Richwines invade Lincoln Park for a double-header with the Marion Athletics. It will be the first double-header of the season for the local outfit.

The first game, a full nine-inning fracas, will be called at 1:30 o'clock. The second contest, to go seven innings, will start immediately following the initial tilt of the afternoon.

Bill Strickradt, slab artist for the Richwines in their last appearance here, will again be on the mound in the first game here Sunday, according to advance information. The hurler for the second tilt has not yet been learned.

Main and Reese will be on the firing line for Marion. Main probably will take the first game with Reese facing the strong Elyria crew in the second skirmish. Brasbears will be on the receiving end.

Elyria defeated Marion here a few weeks ago, Strickradt allowing the locals only six hits. But the Athletics have been hitting harder and playing better ball in the field than they did at that time.

Elyria will have the same team here that appeared on the last occasion and Marion will face the Richwines with the same lineup also, with the exception of the addition of Nuniviller in right field since the first engagement.

E. C. Macken will umpire the games.

A Story of Boyhood Adventures

[illegible] now is the day I get my face [illegible] and ears washed by my aut, [illegible] I will go to Sunday School [illegible] Wash me and I will be whit[illegible] as w." when she has scrubbed [illegible] I am as punk as a lobster.

[illegible] Jubilee laid quite a while [illegible] wondering what we would [illegible] our turkles now that we have [illegible] I did not want them for [illegible] only to show the one that [illegible] that it couldn't munky with [illegible] get away with it. The places [illegible] I got stuck by thorns aren't well [illegible] The still show on me but they [illegible]

[illegible] were over before I got [illegible] and I was telling them [illegible] I was all scarred up but that the [illegible] showed but didn't hurt, and [illegible] looked crosseyed and said that [illegible] how it was with her turkle [illegible] and then someone asked about the [illegible] that changed the conversa[illegible] and I was glad of it. They all [illegible] and got down in a ring around [illegible] opening and looked down, [illegible] their stummicks, and they [illegible] see my turkles swimming around. [illegible] and they would not live in [illegible] so we scooped them out and put [illegible] one sack and were going to [illegible] them over to put them in the mud[illegible] in the brickyard until we could [illegible] them large enough to sell to [illegible] cants, and that oughtn't be long. [illegible] also a lot of people drownd their [illegible] and kittens in the mudhole and [illegible] turkers would have all they could [illegible] and when we had got them all out [illegible] and come to the door and called me [illegible] and told me to take a pail and [illegible] enough soft water and put in the [illegible] for her to take a bath, so I did, [illegible] I got one of the biggest turkles [illegible] took it up and put it in the bathtub and left it there and then I said to her through the door to her room that her bath was ready, and she didn't even say thank you, so I went and got my turkles and we took them to the mudhole acrosst the street one at a time, and were chunking them in as hard as we could, and all at once we heard a screech that made our hair stand up, and then another and another. And I almost got licked when I brang the cows home and my father got home from work. Because the minister and his wife had came and were visiting my mother when my aut got in the tub with the turkle and then she got out and went busting down the stairs and into the setting room without knowing anyone was there. I told my father that if the turkle was in one of the buckets of water I carried in I didn't see it. And that wasn't a lie, but it was a narrow escape. I bet the minister was scairt.

I put it in the bathtub

Peter's Adventures

A Story for Boys and Girls

BY FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

JUST SUPPOSING

MRS. BEAVER climbed out of the water, and seating herself upon the bank stared at Peter without saying a single word. She seemed to be thinking very hard. She was quiet so long the boy grew curious.

"Why are you looking at me like that?" asked he. "Surely you are not worrying for fear I am going to hurt you, Mrs. Beaver!"

"I am not worrying at all. I am supposing!" declared the lady.

"Supposing! Supposing what?" Peter was determined to know what was making Mrs. Beaver smile so broadly, and if he hadn't been very careful indeed, he would have laughed in her face for, with her split up, she looked exactly as though she were making a face at him. B. Z. gazed at his wife in surprise.

"I was just supposing that all the terrible Two-Legs were as tiny as you are and we Beavers were setting traps for them," chuckled Mrs. Beaver. "What fun it would be! We would sneak up in the darkness and scoop out a hole in the ground, plaster it with mud so you couldn't dig your way out, cover it with sticks, drop a loose stone here and there, and roof it with leaves and grass. You would come strolling along, never noticing it at all, or if you did, you would think it was only a little brush heap that the wind had blown together. You would step upon it. Crack! In would fall the make-believed roof! Ker plump!

"Down to the bottom of the pit you would drop, and we should have you in our trap. Two-Legs in a Beaver's trap! What great good luck!"

And there you would stay all day, hungry and frightened and gasping for air, and at night when we came to get you you would be too weak to fight us much and we should have no trouble at all in dragging you into the water and through the waves to our wigwam.

Then we would strip you of your nice white skin, maybe. I think it would make a nice cover for the babies' bed when the winter nights are chilliest, and I am not sure what we would do with the rest of you, for we don't like meat but we Beavers would—"

"Don't tell me any more, Mrs. Beaver, please don't," begged the boy. "I suppose you are trying to tease me, but it makes me shiver."

"Oh, it does, does it?" snapped the lady. "Nothing like that has ever happened to the Two-Legs, and it probably never will, but did you ever happen to think that such a fate as I've just been telling you about is a common occurrence in the Beaver family? It doesn't do us any good to shiver all over every time we think about it.

"My poor, dear mother was caught in a trap and carried off to be robbed of her beautiful fur. I saw her quiver, heard her cries for help as she lay all day in that dreadful trap—and I couldn't aid her."

Next: "A Vanishing Tribe."

It is the political speaker that makes you laugh at the opposing candidate who accomplishes more than the speaker who says mean things about him.

Want to Make

More Money

This advertisement is addressed to men who want to GROW with Marion. If you are satisfied with business as it is, with conditions as they are, with your earning power, we are not talking to you.

But if you want to make MORE money—if you want a job that pays you ALL you are worth—if you want to join an organization that is determinedly heading for bigger, better things, then come in and talk with us.

We are selling real estate—SELLING it under a system that pays the salesmen generously, and helps him do the selling.

Good money for experienced men. Good money for beginners, too, as we provide the expert assistance that enables the inexperienced man to make money while he is learning.

We want four men—four good men. If you are the kind that hesitates to look into a proposition, don't waste your time or ours. But if you can do your own thinking, make your own decisions, take advantage of all opportunity when you see it, then come in and talk with Mr. Hill or Mr. Downey any time Monday or Tuesday.

Houston Oil and Lehigh Valley Furnish Principal Market Interest

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

Railroad stocks, steady; industrial stocks, irregular; domestic bonds, steady; foreign bonds, steady; grain irregular; cotton, firm; oil, firm; cotton, firm; rubber, steady; sugar, steady; pig iron, steady; foreign exchange, irregular.

New York, July 9.—With the exception of a few of the high-priced speculative favorites, which continued the forward movements in progress since Tuesday, stock prices moved in a narrow radius in the short session of the market today.

Speculative interest fell off at the week-end, not only in the stock market, but also in the investment bond market and the principal commodity futures. There was no special stimulus to industrial stock buying in the weekly trade reviews, which however, were quite promising in respect to crop improvement and retail commodity trade. The half-yearly report on railroad freight traffic showed the setting up of a new high record for all time.

Houston Oil and Lehigh Valley, which distinguished themselves in Friday's session, were the leaders respectively of the industrial and railroad shares to today's upward movement of prices. Wall Street heard that a Baltimore pool had been tightening the lines in Houston Oil, which has moved up from 60 to 174 in the absence of special developments in the company, and the failure of the directors to take any action on a dividend declaration or the stockholders. Outstanding stock is only about 250,000 shares, which makes the stock excellent for pool operation, and the short interest is said to be heavy.

Lehigh Valley and the southwestern merger rails were the center of interest in the transportation group, but trading as a whole was negligible in this section of the market. Atlantic Coast Line and other southern rails benefited from the reports of better traffic conditions in that territory. Southern Pacific and other high grade dividend rails received some attention from investment buyers, but the volume of trading in these stocks was also small.

Steel stocks were held back by the proximity of the monthly report on steel forward bookings, to be issued by the United States Steel Corporation at the close of the market. Advance estimates were for a decline of about 150,000 tons as compared with May 31 orders. The motor stocks were firm, Dodge responding feebly to the announcement that the company will soon place a high class four-cylinder car on the market. Mack Trucks sold off a few points under professional pressure. Oils were steady, with Standard Oil issues making the best records.

FINISH PLANS ON QUQUA DITCH IMPROVEMENT

Final Hearing Scheduled Before Commissioners Friday, Aug. 5

Plans for the Ququa ditch improvement, the largest ditch project started in Marion County in the last 10 years, have been completed in the office of County Surveyor Leavens and final hearing will be held by the board of commissioners on Friday, Aug. 5.

Date for the hearing was set by the commissioners yesterday when plans, specifications and cost estimates were submitted to the board by Clyde C. Caldwell, deputy surveyor.

Cost of the work is estimated at $33,516.62. According to the plans the ditch is to be improved by making its channel wider and deeper and removing all obstructions and abrupt turns over a distance of approximately six and a half miles.

The improvement will provide urgently needed drainage not only for farm land southeast of the city, but for a large area inside the city. Properties to be especially benefited are Vernon Heights, Marion Cemetery, St. Mary's Cemetery and the Harding memorial site.

To Eliminate Floods

The improved drainage facilities will eliminate danger of flood conditions which have existed in the past during periods of heavy rainfall, officials state.

The ditch will be open a distance of about five and a half miles and one mile will be tiled. Thirty-inch tile will be laid in more than half of this section.

Cost of the work is to be paid entirely by assessments levied against property owners, the assessments to be proportioned according to benefits. A number of residence properties in the southeast section of the city will probably be included.

Natural Waterway

Ququa ditch is a natural waterway which starts at a point near the intersection of Chicago-av and the Erie railroad and follows a southeast course through the county, finally emptying into the Whetstone river a short distance north of Waldo.

This is the largest improvement of its kind proposed since completion of the Tymochtee ditch project in the western part of the county about 10 years ago. Petition for the Ququa improvement was filed with the commissioners Jan. 14, 1926.

Bottom width of the ditch after the work is completed will range from three to five feet. It is expected that a dredge will be used for excavating.

At the final hearing Aug. 5 the commissioners will take final action on assessments and probably set the date for awarding the contract. Bonds are to be issued to finance the project. Unless unforseen obstacles develop, construction work will be started this year.

BOARD FAILS TO ACT ON ROAD IMPROVEMENT

Postpone Decision When County Surveyor Leavens Is Unable To Attend Session

No action was taken by the board of county commissioners yesterday in regard to assessments for improvement of the St. James-rd in Richland Township and the hearing was continued until Sept. 8. County Surveyor Leavens was unable to attend yesterday's hearing because of illness and the postponement was decided upon for that reason.

About a dozen Richland Township landowners were present yesterday and took part in informal discussion of plans for the road improvement. They were informed by the commissioners that construction work will not be started until next year.

County Has More Than Third As Many Horses as Autos

ALTHOUGH it cannot be denied that Marion is progressing and with the best of the counties in the state and the United States, residents of this community are loathe to replace machinery for the old standby, the horse, as a checkup reveals.

In spite of the fact that locomotive power has taken the place of Old Dobbin in many sections of the country almost entirely, Marion County has more than one-third as many horses as it has automobiles.

Although an accurate check is not available at the Marion auto club, there are approximately 14,000 automobiles in Marion County while the horses in the county number nearly 5,825.

In the city, however, it is a different tale. Marion boasts of less than 100 horses while 9,500 automobiles are crowded into the streets.

Last year only 93 horses were found and four blacksmith shops were in the city. This year the number is exceedingly lower and the blacksmith shops have diminished to two and these do not depend entirely upon horse trade.

An estimate made in the office of the Marion County Auditor, today, had the horses of Marion County valued at $342,150, or an average of $60 each. Various estimations as to the worth of all the automobiles in Marion have been made but it is believed that the 14,000 cars are valued near the $3,000,000 mark.
